IS SOUTHLAND OIL PRODUCTION WANING?

Experts Declare Peak Is Passed; Rapid Decline Now Coming

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Colorado Street Paving Still Causing Comment.

SOME members of the city council do not seem favorable towards the city assuming the expense of paving that part of Colorado street that fronts on the old high school grounds, which would under ordinary circumstances be paid for by the abutting property owners.

The Glendale Elks' grounds front on the other side of the street and they are more than willing to assume their part of the cost.

The trouble lies in the payment for the half that fronts on the school grounds, which the city fathers are endeavoring to compel the high school trustees to pay for, even with the knowledge that funds collected as taxes for educational purposes would have to be used.

* * *

IN the election held on August 29, 1922, there appeared on the ballot the following: "Shall the city of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $35,000 for the improvement of streets, adjacent to public school property and other public property in the city of Glendale."

This was prepared by the city attorney by order of the city council. When it was presented to the people they voted on it favorably.

Those councilmen who are opposing the paving of this section of Colorado now claim that the people voted on the proposition with the belief that the money was to be used for paving the streets fronting on grammar schools only.

* * *

HE don't know where they gained this information. It was not from the wording of the proposition as presented to the people, for it specifically says "schools" and our high school is surely considered as much a school as are the grade schools.

While these councilmen are placing a construction on the meaning of the proposition it might be well for them to explain why they added "and other public property in the city of Glendale." Was it so they could use as much of the money as they wanted and leave the school needs to be taken care of from the balance, if there was any?

The Glendale board of education has token the stand, and rightfully too, that "no school maintenance funds can be used for the paving of streets."

* * *

UP to the present the high school trustees have taken the same stand. There is one thing sure and that is, the people of Glendale will not vote favorably on another high school bond issue unless the money is to be used in the establishment of a Junior High system with a plant in the northwest section of the city.

Under these conditions it behooves the school authorities to conserve present funds and not use any for other than school needs.

* * *

UP to the present time ten thousand dollars of the bond issue has been used. We have not as yet been able to learn how much of this amount was used for paving in front of schools and how much, if any, was used for the paving of streets fronting on other city property, although we have requested this information from the city authorities.

* * *

THERE still remains, however, $25,000 of this fund, and there is no legitimate reason for the city authorities hesitating in agreeing to pay for this work.

The citizens at large will not stand for only half of Colorado at this point being paved and the other half being left as it now is. While this is the present plan we believe a majority of the council members after investigating further, will change the plan.

* * *

COLORADO Street is a busy thoroughfare and especially so at this location on account of the Elks' club house. With only half the street paved it would mean either the blocking of the street or the prohibiting of the parking of autos. Either of these plans would work a hardship on quite a number and neither should be permitted.

NEW BUSINESS BUILDING TO RISE

Henry C. Hock of 628 North Central avenue, will, it is understood, soon begin the construction of a two-story business building, just west of the Booth block on East Broadway. This structure will be 25x60 feet in size and will be modern in every way.

WRECK INQUIRY IS BRINGING OUT NEW FACTS

Commander Ashley Admids Radio Accuracy Not Tested

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 21.—The naval court of inquiry investigating the wreck of seven destroyers off Point Honda, Calif., September 8, resumed its sessions here today with Lieutenant Commander John M. Ashley, superintendent of communication of the 11th division. In the court room hush that preceded the swearing in of the witnesses could be heard the voices of men inside the quadrangle formed by the stucco buildings of the naval air station headquarters, busy with folding chairs and benches which they were grouping around a platform erected near the flag pole in preparation for Sunday's memorial services in honor of the destroyer's 23 dead.

No complaints had ever been made to him, as superintendent of communications, that the bearings sent out by Point Arguello station were inaccurate, Mr. Ashley said, adding that he was sure if a material error had ever been made he would have been informed of it.

"The Arguello station enjoys the highest reputation for accuracy among navigators," he said, "especially among those of merchant ships plying the coast routes."

Asked under cross examination if any change in equipment had been made at Arguello which might have affected the operation of the station, the witness said that "one of the masts was dropped at noon," and admitted that no inspections or technical adjustments had been made to make sure that the accuracy of the station had not been affected by this incident.

He also admitted that no warnings had been sent out to ships at sea that the accuracy of Point Arguello compass bearings might be affected by this circumstance.

"Was there any confusion in the air which might have led to inaccurate bearings being sent out?" counsel for Captain Edward H. Watson, chief of the destroyer squadron, asked.

"Well, there was an unusual number of ships asking for bearings that night," replied Ashley, "and as a result there appeared to be some confusion in the air."

Woodlands Folk Cry Out for Sewers

The people of the Verdugo Woodlands are crying for sewer service. A communication was submitted to the city council of Glendale Thursday asking that this service be given. This letter stated that in improving the streets in Rossmoyne the Haddock-Nibley company has plowed up a 12-inch main on the sewer system and the council was asked to see that the company replaced it.

The septic tank, which was building on the Ross ranch to take care of this section, it is understood, has been finished for a long time and only needs connecting up. The council decided to take the matter of the repair of the main up with Mr. Haddock at an early date.

THREE ST. LOUIS DISTRICTS GIVEN OVER TO NEGROES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 21.—United Press) Establishment of exclusive negro residential sections of this city to take care of the colored population's 50 per cent increase since 1920 has been approved by the 375 members of the St. Louis real estate exchange.

Three districts have been set aside and the members of the exchange will sell no property to negroes outside of these districts, as far as possible.

The districts are the ones in which the densest negro populations now are located. One district, now housing 5000, is capable of holding 30,000, realtors said. Another district, in which between 50,000 and 55,000 negroes now live, has a capacity of 100,000.

The negro population has increased from 65,000 in 1920 to 190,000, practically all of the increase coming from the south, authorities estimate.

VALLEY COUNCIL PRESENTED WITH ITS NEW CHARTER

The San Fernando Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, was officially presented with a charter Friday evening at San Fernando, from the National council, B. S. A. The charter was presented in behalf of the National Boy Scout movement by Roy L. Kent, who in addition to being treasurer of the Verdugo Hills Scout council, is a member of the national council of the Boy Scouts.

Glendale was well represented at the charter presentation. Those in the official Scout party were A. R. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills council; Roy L. Kent, the treasurer; Francis J. W. Henry, pep promoter and Scout Executive Harold F. Benner.

The affair was held in Recreation hall at San Fernando and more than 300 were present at the charter presentation. A delightful dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, which was followed by an interesting and inspirational program. The meeting came to a climax when team captains reported that the year's budget of $7,000 had been successfully raised.

The San Fernando Valley council is the newest first class council to be organized in Southern California. Its territory includes the cities of Lankershim, San Fernando, Van Nuys, Zekah, Newhall, Mission Acres, Villa Vista, Saugus, Pacoima, Resida, Owensmouth and Chatsworth. Mr. Delmar von Glahn is the Scout executive. He was formerly the executive at Stockton, Calif.

The Kiwanis clubs of the San Fernando valley are sponsoring the movement in its infant stage and it is largely through the enthusiasm and energy which they have instilled into their clubs for the Boy Scouts that has made the organization of the San Fernando Valley Scout council possible.

GREAT PROGRAM BY COMMUNITY SERVICE SOON

By request of Community Service the chamber of commerce is on Tuesday night giving an entertainment in the auditorium of the high school at 7:30 o'clock.

This will be the first of a series of such entertainments which organizations of the city will be asked to give under the auspices of Community Service.

The program will be largely provided by representatives of the chamber of commerce and the city council who are returning from Mexico. It will open with community singing. V. M. Hollister, chairman of community service, will introduce the president of the chamber of commerce, who will have charge of the program.

Mayor Spencer Robinson will make the first talk on "What We Heard in Mexico." Peter L. Ferry will speak on "What We Saw in Mexico," Herman Nelson will tell "How We Were Received in Mexico," and Dr. Jessie Russell will talk about Recognition Day. Chas. B. Guthrie will tell of his experiences on the west coast of Mexico.

Miss Viola Yorba will sing "La Paloma," in Spanish, and there will be more community singing of familiar things including "The Star Spangled Banner."

GRAVE WARNING GIVEN INTENDING OIL INVESTORS, IN OIL SECURITIES

Experts Declare Peak of Production Has Been Passed in All Southern California Fields and That Rapid Decline Has Set in

THOUGHT FEW FUTURE WELLS WILL PAY

Claimed That Territory Producing 18,000-Barrel Gushers Three Months Ago, in Three Best Fields, Now Brings in Only 2500-Barrel Wells

(The statements below from two different sources are of vital interest to all citizens contemplating investment in oil securities, hence the Daily Press gives them special prominence.)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 21.—A warning to citizens of California who may be contemplating investment in oil securities was made public here today by the state corporation department, which declared that "from authentic sources we are receiving almost hourly confirmation of the report that the curve of decline in production in these territories (the Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill and Huntington Beach districts) is much more precipitous than the average geologist has filed with the corporation department.

"A critical situation exists. There has not been a sufficient time elapsed in which to tell definitely at what curve this decline will be projected definitely."

Until more definite data is obtainable, the warning stated, applications to sell security in all new drilling projects in the Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill and Huntington Beach territory "will receive the closest scrutiny." The same conditions will attach to applications for permits to sell security in reorganized projects in the same districts.

The warning concludes with the statement that the announcement "should not be misconstrued by the investing public. There are many legitimate oil companies."

[By Associated Press]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21.—The unprecedented oil boom that swept California during the past year is over and from now on there will be a steady decline in production, S. A. Guiberson, Jr., of the Southern California Oil Producers, said today before the annual convention of the National Petroleum association.

The threatened shortage of gasoline in 1922 advanced the price of crude oil, led to many "wild-catting" schemes and opened up three new large oil fields in that state, Mr. Guiberson asserted. The serious over-production that resulted is no longer menacing the industry and the decline in new wells has been so rapid that the peak is past, he added.

"The limits of the new big fields are so well defined that it is pretty safe to say that we need have no fear of any new large production areas," he said. "I predict a healthy condition in California in the next six or eight months, with a drawing on oil storage. Within that time the Pacific coast will absorb 500,000 barrels a day. At present we are shipping 175,000 barrels daily to Atlantic, gulf and foreign ports."

The decline in new wells has been so rapid that we now feel confident that the peak has been passed and that the potential production will fall materially below our estimates for the months of September, October and November.

"Where it was not an unusual thing to have several 10,000 barrels or even larger wells each week, we now very seldom have a well that will exceed 4000. As an illustration of this I could cite one property in the heart of the Santa Fe Springs field where two wells three months ago were capable of producing 18,000 barrels per day. Last week a third well was completed on this property and it will not produce 2500 barrels per day when flowing wide open. In another instance a well completed sixty days ago flowed in excess of 15,000 barrels per day. An offset to this well was opened up about one week ago and it will only produce 2200 barrels per day now.

"The same thing holds true in Signal Hill and wells drilled to depths of from 5200 to 5800 feet are coming in at less than 2000 barrels pre day, where 10,000-barrel wells were expected. Water is showing up in many wells in the Long Beach field and threatens to destroy many wells in that field. At Huntington Beach the peak has been passed for some time and water conditions there will very seriously curtail the production.

"Edge water is showing up in many wells in Santa Fe Springs and water is appearing in many of the wells located near the center of the field.

"How fast the decline will be from this time on with no shutdown in oil to help hold it up is a question that is of vital importance, but it is one of which no one likes to prophesy.

"In my judgment very few wells upon which drilling is commenced after this date in either the Santa Fe Springs or Signal Hill will ever repay the cost of drilling."

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. KRAMER

Mrs. W. J. Kramer, 200 North Verdugo, celebrated her birthday anniversary with a charming dinner party last night in the banquet room of the Egyptian Village Cafe. Mrs. Kramer's mother, Mrs. Caroline Fischer, and Mrs. Earl Glauber, who have both recently returned from summer trips, were the guests of honor. Mr. Glauber has just come home to Los Angeles from the east and will leave soon to resume his studies at Stanford University. Mrs. Fischer makes her home in Glendale.

Covers were laid for twelve. The attractive tables were decorated with amusing little place cards, each with a humorous figure and witty rhyme. As favors the women found a bottle of perfume at their places, and the men were presented with various amusing trinkets. Those sharing the pleasure of the affair were: Dr. and Mrs. James A. Belyea, Mr. Ludwig Grossman, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Black, Mr. C. S. Akers, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kramer, Miss Dorothy Kramer of Glendale, Mr. H. H. Sperling of New York, and the honor guests, Mrs. Caroline Fischer and Mr. Earl Glauber.

JUDGE'S DECISION MAY FREE I. W. W.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—A decision which may open the gates of San Quentin and allow freedom to several score I. W. W. now imprisoned there on charges of violating the state criminal syndicalism act, was returned by Judge Houser of the appellate court, first division, in reversing a judgment of guilty and ordering a new trial for Felix Thornton.

Thornton appealed his case from Kern county, where he was convicted of criminal syndicalism on the ground that he was a member of the I. W. W. which, it was charged, was an organization sponsoring the overthrow of the government by force and violence, and advocate sabotage. Under a score of recent superior court decisions the syndicalism law has been interpreted to mean that membership in the I. W. W. constitutes advocacy of overthrowing the government and of sabotage.

The opinion of the court stated: "The defendant is entitled to acquittal unless it is shown by competent witnesses that the doctrines and teachings of the organization were denounced by statute."

MEETING CALLED TO PLAN WORK FOR CITY CHEST

Taking prompt action in the matter of the Community chest, W. E. Hewitt, named by the Chamber of Commerce to take such action as is necessary to effect a permanent organization, is calling a meeting for Monday night of representatives of all the well-known organizations in the city and of the members of the first chest committee appointed by the Chamber.

At that meeting it is expected that plans of work will be laid out and the organization of a duly incorporated Community chest will be started. Committees will be appointed and important information conveyed to the various representatives who are expected to be present.

OFFER OF HALL FOR CHURCH USE IS APPRECIATED

Rev. Edmonds Thanks the Daily Press for Tender of Auditorium

The Glendale Presbyterian Church which is completing its beautiful new building at the corner of Louise and Harvard, and which has just said goodbye to the church in which it has been worshipping at the corner of Cedar and Broadway, has had a chance to test the hospitality and friendly spirit of Glendale. Its auditorium is not yet completed and it has for that reason been open to invitations for a place in which its Sunday morning services could be held.

The Glendale Press, which is the fortunate possessor of an auditorium capable of seating 1200, offered this when it learned of the church's predicament. It has received the following letter in response to that offer, which is self explanatory:

Capt Thos. D. Watson,
Glendale Press,
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Sir and Brother:

On behalf of our Session I desire to assure you of our appreciation of your offer of your hall for the holding of our Sabbath morning services until such a time as we can get into our new auditorium.

After going over the whole situation, it was decided that the location would be too far away from the center, and also too far away from our Sunday school department. It seems to us that it would be a very unfortunate thing to have our Sunday school so far removed from the preaching services.

We have decided to accept the invitation of Mr. Howe, and for a number of weeks conduct our morning services in the Glendale Theater.

Assuring you of our sincere appreciation of your kindly offer, I am, yours truly,

W. E. EDMONDS.

COLORADO RIVER RAGING; SURVEY PARTY IN DANGER

[By Associated Press]

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Sept. 21.—Considerable apprehension is felt here for the safety of members of the government survey party charting the course of the Colorado river as a result of heavy rainfall in this section.

Rivers tributary to the Colorado are out of their banks at many points and the full running streams it was said here last night by official observers, would seriously affect the Colorado river.

The survey party was last heard of at Supai trail which they reached September 13, and the Colorado at that time was reported running high. The region being explored today by the party is not habitated and the Colorado courses it thru narrow gorges.

No contact can be effected with the surveyors until they reach Diamond Creek trail, probably the latter part of this month.

Warnings of a rise in the Colorado river at Yuma by September 28, were issued by the Phoenix weather bureau yesterday.

THE WEATHER

COLORADO PAVING BIDS OPENED LAST NIGHT

Plans Provide Street 56 Feet Wide Across the City

Bids were opened Thursday night by the Glendale council for the improvement of Colorado street, from the easterly city limits to the San Fernando road. They were referred to the city engineer for checking and report.

When finished this street will be 56 feet between curbs and will be one of the finest thoroughfares in the city. It will be improved with 4½ inches of asphaltic macadam and will have a wearing surface of 1½ inches of National top dressing, being identical with the pavement to be put down on Glendale avenue.

An attempt is being made by the engineering department of the city to have the contract for this work ready for awarding at the Monday night's meeting.

CANADIAN CLUB DANCE PLEASANT AFFAIR FOR ALL

The Glendale Canadian club dance last night was a pleasant and lively frolic for the sixty couple who shared the amusements of the evening. The K. of P. hall was artistically decorated with numerous potted ferns and banks of cut flowers, all arranged about the room to make an attractive setting for the dancers. Colored streamers were an additional decorative feature and the clever favor caps of paper which were passed out among the dancers added to the general good time spirit and merriment of the occasion.

Kelly's Shrine orchestra dispensing the harmony, afforded a surplus of good music. Several tables of five hundred were in order for those who did not care for the dancing.

Punch and wafers were served during the evening. Everyone present is casting an eye on the calendar, and looking forward to the next dance, the date of which has not yet been set.

On October fourth the next regular meeting for members will take place.

INCOME TAXES SHOW GREAT GAIN

Final counting of the receipts of income taxes paid in the third installments shows that the collections in the Southern California district from September 1 to 15 were $7,084,009.08, compared with $6,305,434.25 for the same period of 1922, a gain of $778,564.83 for two weeks.

Income tax receipts for the calendar year 1923, up to September 15, were $30,842,705.69, against $26,008,390.24 for the corresponding period of 1922 a gain of $4,834,315.45. At this rate of increase the income receipts for the entire calendar year will pass the $40,000,000 mark. The collector called attention to the fact that eight years ago the total receipts of the Southern California district, including every tax levied by the internal revenue bureau, were only $2,503,447 for an entire year.

Another federal division headquarters has been moved to Los Angeles, it was announced yesterday.

Under an order of Commissioner Blair a new division of supervisors of collections and accounts has been created to take in California, Nevada, Arizona and the Hawaiian islands. Supervisor L. M. Dolde will be supervisor-in-charge with headquarters in the Federal building. Dolde's headquarters have been at San Francisco. Under the new ruling another division having jurisdiction over Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho and Alaska, with headquarters at Portland, has been established.

FOUR DEATHS THUS FAR FROM BUREAU EXPLOSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The death early today of James E. Kendig of Salunga, Pa., one of the bureau of standards experts, injured in the laboratory explosion yesterday, brought the number killed to four. Five others severely injured remained in the hospital today

CALLA LILY DAIRY HOLDS COUNCIL ATTENTION

Residents of Vicinity Trying to Protest It Out of District

An effort was started last night before the Glnedale city council to oust the Calla Lily creamery, located on Porter stret, from its present location, the claim of the protestants being that the establishment is a nuisance and is located in a strictly residential district that is building up at a remarkable rate. A protest bearing the names of about fifty residents and property owners in the region of the dairy was presented to the council by Paul Wittsten, 417 Fisher street. Quite a number of other protestants were present and made oral demands that the creamery be removed, various reasons being given.

When asked if any complaints as to the place being unsanitary has been made to him Dr. Kaemmerling, city health officer, replied:

"Not recently. Some time ago complaints were made and I investigated the property and told the proprietor he would have to put his property in a sanitary condition. This was done."

To the assertion that the proprietor of the creamery had erected a long garage without first securing a permit from the building inspector, the council decided, on motion of Councilman Horn, to have the city attorney, chief of police and the building inspector look the matter over and take the necessary action at once. The attitude of the council was that in the event that the creamery company had violated the city building and zoning ordinance prosecution proceedings should be started immediately.

As a result of the statement that the cesspools of the creamery were in an unsanitary state, City Health Officer Kaemmerling was instructed to make an investigation of the premises at once.

The remainder of the record of the council's proceedings will be found in an inside page.

FOUR KILLED IN SANTA FE WRECK

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 21.—Four members of the train crew of the crack California limited of the Santa Fe were killed near Hot Springs Junction, 40 miles west of here, late yesterday when the locomotive overturned on a curve. The dead include the engineer, fireman, train barber and porter. No passengers were injured. High water from recent rains was believed by railroad officials to be the cause of the engine leaving the rails.

Other passenger trains along the line were detoured over the Southern Pacific tracks. The Santa Fe track is expected to be cleared today.

LATE SPORTS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Jesse W. Sweetser, of New York, defending champion, finished the first 18 holes of the morning round with Bob Gardner of Chicago 7 up in the national amateur golf championship at Flossmoor today. He went out in par 36 and came home in one under par for a 37, while Gardner took 38 going out and required 32 coming back. Max Marston of Philadelphia and Francis Ouimet, Boston, were all square at the end of the 18th hole.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R. I., today eliminated Miss Alexa Stirling of New York in the semi-final of the Canadian women's golf championship, 3 and 2.

Miss Collett's opponent in the final round tomorrow will be Mrs. W. A. Gavin of England, the defending champion, who defeated Mrs. Hope Gibson, 2 and 1, in the other semi-final match.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Max Marston of Philadelphia will be Sweetser's opponent in the final round as the result of his victory, 3 and 2, over Francis Ouimet of Boston. While Marston did NOT shoot remarkable golf, taking 81 for the first round and being only a trifle better on the second, Ouimet could NOT get his game in working order and finally slipped on the last few holes letting Marston get an advantage that he could not overcome.

BRILLIANT ARRAY OF PATRONS FOR CANTOR CONCERT

Never has a Glendale concert been given with a more brilliant array of patrons and patronesses than the concert that Henry Cantor is giving at the Tuesday Afternoon club house Saturday evening under the auspices of the club. The list includes Messrs. and Mesdames Daniel Campbell, A. H. Montgomery, C. W. Houston, William Hunter, Frank C. Ayars, M. E. Plasterer, E. W. Hayward, H. E. Bartlett, A. A. Barton, J. T. Crampton, J. E. Sargent, Mattison B. Jones, Eustace B. Moore, John F. Ray, A. J. Maxwell, J. Ray Bentley, John D. Case, E. Gillilan, Ernest Card, T. J. Widmeyer, Max Green, Pierson Hanning, C. T. Jones, W. R. Rattray, Alexander Mitchell, H. L. Baker, Homer Lockwood, Walter Jones, C. A. Brandstater, Warren Roberts, F. L. Hollingsworth, and W. Clough, Mrs. Lilian Dow, Mrs. Pearl Curran and Madam Romonowski.

Mr. Cantor has a most unusual voice and a wonderful future is predicted for him on the operatic and concert stage. He is leaving in a few weeks for a tour of the Orient which will keep him from Glendale for the best part of a year. This will probably be the last opportunity Glendalians will have to hear him in any extended repertoire before he sails and no music lover should miss the opportunity not only for the personal enjoyment but also for the chance to encourage a local artist likely to bring fame to Glendale. Mr. Cantor is very loyal to his home city and says he will talk Glendale in all his journeyings.

Choral Committee Called to Meet Monday

A meeting of the Community Service Choral Committee, of which Mrs. Alexander Mitchell is chairman, has been called for Monday, September 24, at 7:30 p. m. to make plans for the work of the organization for the coming year.

It will not be a community sing but real training concert work of a choral character, and therefore of great interest to vocalists who have had some training.

Rehearsals will begin October 8. No membership fee will be charged and singers are asked to register at the office of Community Service in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

The committee includes:

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, chairman, 2001 Kenneth road; Mrs. Katherine Collette, 433 Riverdale Drive; Dr. John Anderson, 251 N. Brand boulevard; Mrs. Virginia Freeman, 316 W. Dryden; Mrs. Chas. Peckham, 615 N. Central; Miss Elizabeth Mottern, 211 N. Adams; Mrs. Helen Campbell, 718 E. Harvard; Mr. Owen Emery, 106A E. Broadway; Mrs. A. L. Bryant, 1635 S. MRS. C. H. TOLL HAS BUSY WEEKS AHEAD

Mrs. Charles H. Toll of this city, president of the district Federation of Women's clubs, finds herself a very busy lady. This afternoon she attends a meeting of the Huntington Park Women's club as guest of honor. Next Monday there will be an all-day meeting of the presidents' council composed of presidents of all the clubs in the district, and she has many speaking engagements for next week. Though assured of the safety of her two boys who are atetnding the university in Berkeley, she is eagerly desiring letters giving the details of their experiences during the great fire in that city.

CHOIR CONCERT FOR TONIGHT HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The concert planned to be given by the choir of Central Christian church, under the efficient direction of Will J. Myers, the leader, as a home-coming welcome to the pastor, Clifford A. Cole, has had to be postponed, owing to conflicting dates, and will be held some time in October. This announcement will be a great disappointment to the many persons who had planned to attend, but the postponement was unavoidable. Due notice of the new date will be given.

OMAR SHRINE MEETS TONIGHT

Omar Shrine No. 9 will meet tonight in the Masonic temple, new members will be balloted on, and the regular business session will be in order. The initiation planned for the next meeting will be held in Pasadena where the local White Shrine order will visit the Arteban Shrine, No. 8. All new members will be put through the paces there.

INSPIRING DINNER, CHURCH MEETING THURSDAY NIGHT

A wonderful dinner and inspiring church meetng was held Thursday night in the First Methodist church of Glendale, at which covers were laid for more than 500; the banquet hall being simply packed.

It was the last business session of the church before the annual conference which is meeting next week in the First Methodist church of Los Angeles.

Following the delicious meal, served by members of the Ladies' Aid, reports were submitted by the heads of all departments of a most encouraging nature. A gain all along the line was revealed, not only in membership but in the various activities of the church and its contributions to the centenary and the current expenses of the church.

An address was made by District Superintendent Dr. W. L. Y. Davis; there were several numbers by the Sunday school orchestra; Dr. L. T. Guild, secretary for the Centenary, made an address.

All in all, the outlook for the coming year is so bright that the church will haye an excellent report to make at the conference.

COLLEGE ALUMNAE CLUB TO MEET

The directors of the College Alumnae club will meet at the Egyptian Village cafe on Tuesday, September 25, for a 1 o'clock luncheon. This will be a meeting of importance, as there are several matters relative to the club activity to be brought up for decision. The new officers are: Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, president; Mrs. Carl E. Webb, vice-president; Mrs. Helen S. Moir, secretary, and Mrs. J. F. Hayward, secretary. Mrs. D. F. Reichard has charge of programs, Mrs. E. B. Sutton, membership; Miss Catherine V. Sinks, scholarship, and Mrs. Willis Emery Lusby, publicity.

PLAN TWO-MINUTE THEATER TALKS FOR JAPAN FUND

Arrangements for two-minute speeches in the three motion picture theaters of Glendale this afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening, appealing for subscriptions to realize Glendale's quota for the Japanese relief fund which the local chapter is endeavoring to raise, have been perfected by the Chamber of Commerce special Red Cross committee composed of W. E. Hewitt, C. D. Lusby and Roy Kent.

The Ministerial union which held a special meeting this morning, is calling upon its members to again appeal to parishoners from their pulpits on Sunday. Letters have been sent by the Chamber to three men representing leading business and industries of the city asking them to canvass all merchants in their lines of business. Between all these agencies it is expected that the deficit in Glendale's quota, which has been reduced to about $4000, will be secured by Monday night.

COUNCIL FAILS TO AUTHORIZE SERUM PAYMENT

The city council Thursday night failed to authorize the payment of a bill amounting to $453.33 presented by Dr. Kaemmerling, Glendale health officer for anti-rabies serum, which, the health officer claims, has been used on patients in Glendale.

Up to a short time ago the serum was furnished to the city by the state health board free of charge and it was passed on to the residents of this city without expense to them. The state is now charging for the serum and this expense must be paid by the city or by those treated. As the city has made no charge for this treatment heretofore and as the health officer was not instructed to charge for the treatment, those who were bitten recently by rapid dogs were treated free.

During the discussion on this question last night Councilman Horn stated that he did not see what the city should pay for these treatments any more than it should pay for any other treatment of disease in Glendale. Councilman Davis stated that so far as he knew Dr. Kaemmerling had not been instructed to give these treatments free of charge and to purchase the serum for same.

After lengthy discussion the matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

MUSIC CLUB TO SECURE NOTED CONCERT SINGER

The most important measure taken by the executive board of the Glendale Music club at its last session was perfecting of arrangements for securing Clarence Whitehall, the celebrated baritone, for the opening concert of the club, October 12. Mr. Whitehall was with the Chicago Opera company for six seasons and with the Metropolitan Opera company for seven seasons.

The year book of the club is to contain a history of the organization, and spaces will be reserved for the cards of Glendale artists.

An educational department is being added to the club's activities this year under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dora Gibson, Mrs. Florence A. Parker being the vice chairman. Charles Wakefield Cadman is chairman of the State Educational department.

Deaths and Funerals

CHARLES M. HALE

Funeral services were held this morning at 10 o'clock at the chapel of Kiefer & Eyerick for Charles M. Hale of 329 Howard street who died Wednesday, after a serious and prolonged illness during which he underwent two operations in the hope of arresting the disease from which he was suffering. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Eva Hale; a daughter, Bessie M. Hale, employed at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and sons, Earl C. Hale resided at the parental home.

He was a man of many fine qualities and will be missed in the circles which knew him best.

WILLIAM W. HAMILTON

Mr. William W. Hamilton, a resident of Glendale for the past twelve years, passed away at his home, 327 West Garfield, on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Hamilton, who was 63 years of age, was a native of Iowa. He is survived by his wife, Harriett N. Hamilton, and a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Brown, of Cedar Falls, Iowa. Mrs. Brown will arrive this afternoon and Mr. Brown is expected to come on Sunday. The funeral announcement will be made after Mrs. Brown's arrival.

PROGRAM DINNER AND DANCE IS POPULAR

Call for Reservatoins for Banquet of Business Women's Club

Reservations are coming in for the dinner which the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club is giving next Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the banquet hall of the beautiful Tuesday Afternoon club house at Central avenue and Lexington.

The last two dinners given by this organization for members and their friends have bee nsuch social successes that there was a strong call for more entertainment of the same sort. At the pervious dinner guests had to be denied at the last for the lack of sufficient room. It will not be the case at the coming function.

Besides a delicious dinner, which will be served by members of the Ways and Means committee of the Tuesday club, a fine program of musical numbers arranged by Mrs. Virginia Freeman, an active member of the club, will be given and a short talk by Miss Sara Grogan of Washington on the new "Yomen's Party."

Following the program cards and dancing will be provided for those who enjoy them, a good orchestra having been secured.

The program and hospitality committees as a courtesy to their caterers desire to close reservations Saturday night if possible.

Members are privileged to bring friend husband, sweetheart, brother, or father as well as women friends and relatives. There will be room for all provided reservations are made early enough.

The tickets for the dinner and entire evening's entertainment are $1, and they can be secured through Mrs. Loretta Williams at Webb's store, Mrs. Gilman at the Glendale telephone office, Dr. Laura Brown at her office over the Security National bank, Glen. 1000-J, and Miss Gibbs, Glen. 1095-M.

BLUE RIBBON QUALITY PAINT STORE THRIVES

"Growing with Glendale" seems to be the favorite sport of local merchants in Glendale today. Since May, when M. Alexander took over the proprietorship of the Harry Moore Paint and Paper company at 304 East Broadway, the volume of business has practically doubled, according to him. Perhaps the quality products account for this, as well as the low prices at which Mr. Alexander retails them, but the growth is more noticeable every day, he states.

The store is now known as the Blue Ribbon Quality Paint store, named after the Sunset Paint company's line of "blue ribbon quality products" carried. The Kyanize varnishes and enamels in stock are on the same plane of excellence with these products.

Mr. Alexander puts a special emphasis on the fact that he sells at factory prices when dealing with legitimate representatives of the Glendale contracting trade. This is one of the reasons why his products are in great demand. In the wall paper line everything is carried, all the latest designs, colors and sizes, from the cheaper grades to the highest quality that is demanded in the most elaborate homes.

Mr. Alexander wishes to state, for the benefit of those who are not already aware of the change in the store's policy, that no contracting business is done by the establishment under the new management.

COMMITTEE OF SIX ON NARCOTICS

Following instructions embodied in a vote of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Tuesday night, the president has appointed six men to constitute a special narcotic committee whose duty it will be to enlist ten men, more or less, to underwrite the $1000 appropriation needed for the educational program captain Hobson proposes to put on in Glendale to combat the narcotic evil. Members of the committee are Roy L. Kent, W. E. Hewitt, C. D. Lusby, Lloyd Wilson, R. F. Kitterman and Percy Hayselden.

MISSOURI PICNIC

Under the auspices of the Missouri Association of Southern California, a big jolly picnic reunion of the former residents of that state will be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day Saturday, September 29. (If rainy that date it goes over to October 6.) Judge H. Parker Wood, president, will preside over the program in the afternoon. The county registers will all be open early in the morning and silk souvenir badges supplied. Picnickers will carry basket dinners but hot coffee will he provided.

All the Missourians of the Southland are cordially invited. Take a day off and meet the old home state friends. Ask your questions of C. H. Parsons, phone 873-511, or call at the Continental National Bank, Main at Ninth.

The Kitchen "Cooler" a dandy place for active little germs!

No good housewife would ever consent to trust her family's food to an ordinary "cooler," at any time of the year, if she realized how rapidly germs thrive and multiply in food when the temperature gets warmer than 50 degrees.

In milk, for instance, untold millions of tiny germs will be produced within an hour. These are not disease germs, but they do rob the milk of much of its nutritive value and help to cause weak, unhealthy babies. They are present long before the milk has actually spoiled.

The only safe place to keep food is in a refrigerator that is supplied with ice regularly, so that it never loses its cold, even temperature. To protect your food and properly safeguard your family's health, you need ice all the year around.

Face Powders

Like we use in Movieland

By EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

I am not a maker of cosmetics. My work is on the stage and screen. But I have arranged to supply others the formulas which made me what I am.

There are four helps which cost me years of searching and a fortune. They are, I believe, the best beauty helps in existence. They made me a famous beauty. And now, after 22 years as a stage star, they keep me looking like a girl.

I am bringing those helps to millions, as a duty to my sex.

Now powders also

Every week I meet thousands in person, and millions in print, to explain the secrets of my youthful bloom.

Vast numbers also ask me what powders I employ. Until lately, I hardly dared to tell them. They were very costly powders, made to order. My beautiful friends on the stage and in Movieland all employ them now.

But I have arranged to have those powders made at modest prices. Not under their original name but under my name. Now you can get these exquisite powders, if you wish, at ordinary prices. Nearly every dealer has them.

The finest we know

We on the stage and screen are careful of our looks. And we are extravagant. We care not what we pay to get the utmost in a powder.

We have found supreme creations, made to our requirements. They are as fine as vapor, as harmless as dew. I who have searched the world for beauty helps have found nothing to compare.

Personally I use a heavy, clinging cold cream powder, with a basis like my Youth Cream. I call it Youth Cream Powder. It clings and stays. But many like the powder light and fluffy, without the cold cream base. So I have both kinds prepared. And both are fragrant with my favorite perfume.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream Powder — the clinging cold cream powder—sells for $1. Edna Wallace Hopper's Face Powder—the light, fluffy powder—sells for 50c. Both come in white, flesh and brunette.

Druggists and toilet goods counters sell my powders now. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Youth Cream—my fruity cold cream. Also my White Youth Clay. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my thick, fine, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

If you desire an exquisite powder, I hope you will try one of mine.—Edna Wallace Hopper, Business Address, Waukesha, Wisc.—Advt.

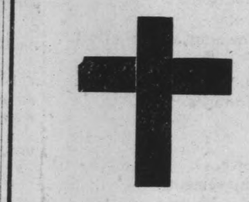
FASHION SECTION IS A DISTINCTIVE FEATURE TODAY

The Glendale Daily Press is offering its 25,000 or more readers today a distinctive feature in the most complete fashion section ever gotten out. It is the 12-page copyrighted feature prepared and distributed to a discriminating class of newspapers by the American Fashion Newspaper Syndicate of New York City. In it the very latest feminine fashions, all down to the minute, are shown and described in detail. We are certain our lady readers will eagerly scan these pages again and again, then file away the section for further personal and later reference. This is only one of the many special choice features newspaper syndicate offerings that the Daily Press is selecting for its readers, for whom nothing is too good.

Edna May Paul, daughter of Mrs. Woodruff Paul of 316 Vine street, has been ill for several days and her many friends who know here personally or have enjoyed her reading and dancing acts, are pleased to know that she is now on the way to recovery.



Don't Send a Broken Crutch to Japan

"THE FASTEST Growing City in America" turning into the "Unsympathetic City of America!" How does that sound?

President Coolidge made an appeal to the American Citizens for $5,000,000 with which to aid Japan in her reconstruction after the devastating earthquake and fire. Other cities raised the amount assigned days before the campaign's end; but we, Glendale, are still hundreds of dollars short—and the finish but three days away!

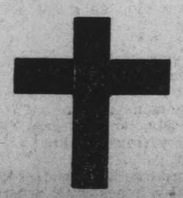
We must raise the quota:

—Our own American Citizens in Japan need the relief help made possible by it.

—Japan must have the food, clothing, medicine and other necessities that can be bought with this money.

Send a five dollar bill—or one-tenth that amount—but send all that you can. We must go over the top in this humanitarian cause. The President has placed his faith in us, and of all times, we cannot fail him now.

Make your check payable to the Glendale Chapter of the Red Cross; and send it in IMMEDIATELY.



Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

E. J. Courtney, who is employed in Glendale, but has been living in Hollywood, decided that Glendale is the home city of his choice, so moved his family over yesterday, locating at 439 West Lexington.

Hancock Banning, once known as the "King of Catalina," because of his practical ownership of the entire island, was in Glendale yesterday and called on his old friend, Judge Frank H. Lowe. "Chan" and "Frank" had a brief but pleasant exchange of reminiscences.

Mrs. C. E. Russell, 332 North Kenwood, has received a detailed letter from her daughter, Mrs. A. S. Russell, who resides in Berkeley. The disastrous fire came within one block of her home in the hillside residential district, and the heat, cinders and smoke were unbearable during the height of the fire, she writes. Mr. Russell's mother and sister lost everything in the catastrophe—home, furniture and clothing.

Mrs. W. G. Boyd of 326 North Jackson, has as her guest Miss Florence Heatherington of Burlington, Iowa. Miss Heatherington, who is a trained nurse, came to California as a tourist. A few days in Glendale and she decided there was no place like home—that is, a home in California. So she will make her home temporarily with Mrs. Boyd, and later settle here permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Singer, 539 North Central, have returned from their ten days' trip to Del Monte and points about San Francisco.

A number of Glendale people were visitors at the Manetho Shrine, No. 1, the Mother Shrine, in Los Angeles, last night. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Leland, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Brown, Mrs. Jennie Parsons and Miss Ethel Parsons.

Mrs. Hannah Laura Stevens, mother of J. Landers Stevens, 724 North Louise, entertained Mrs. Gene Murphy of Los Angeles and Mrs. Mesmer of Oakland at a charming luncheon served in the artistic Egyptian Village cafe yesterday.

Mrs. J. D. Rathbun, 423 West Colorado street, spent a few days at Santa Monica, visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Rowe of that city.

Mrs. Ella Richardson, 317 North Brand boulevard, has returned from a pleasant three weeks' stay on Catalina Island, where she visited Mrs. John Bloeser. Mrs. Richardson found the swimming and all the other activities of the island resort highly enjoyable, especially at this time of the year. People who have been on the island since the first of the summer months say that this is the best month of the season for swimming and general enjoyment of the summer amusements.

Miss Helen Hanson of Los Angeles was the house guest of Mrs. G. H. Rowe, 216 South Orange, on Wednesday. Thursday, Miss Hanson and Miss Nellie Rowe went to Redlands to register at the university. Miss Rowe has been in attendance there during former terms, and both she and Miss Hanson will make their home at Knoll Hall dormitory. Miss Rowe will leave Glendale on Sunday.

Our Schools and Colleges

POMONA COLLEGE

Claremont is alive again. Pomona College has opened. The full academic student body has been enrolled. The new freshman class consists of 125 men and 100 women. Green paint, green caps and green students are everywhere about the city. The sophomores have paid their annual respects to the freshman body which was warned in advance to "Sin and Suffer." In the process of taming the new freshmen, some undoubtedly suffered inconvenience without having sinned.

The convocation exercises which mark the formal opening of the college were held at Bridges Hall of Music at 10:30 a. m. today. The hall was well filled at this time by the student body and the general public. In opening the session President Blaisdell referred to the fact that years ago when the college was still younger than now, a certain Bible chapter was adopted as the college chapter, and a certain old hymn as the college hymn, and that through the years this hymn had been sung and this chapter read as the great expression of the spiritual life of the college. "How Firm a Foundation Ye Saints of the Lord" was then sung, followed by the responsibe reading of the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians.

President Blaisdell then delivered the address of the day, which was inspirational in its character. He emphasized the fact that college life stood for joyous idealism, constitutional order and sacrificial service. He paid a very great tribute to the members of the student body who come to college under the necessity of working their way through, declaring that they are nothing less than heroes and heroines entitled to the iron cross or any other insignia that humanity has invented for its great heroes.

He also emphasized the necessity of personal self control as the foundation for the development of real character in the individual and of a social order based upon spiritual values in the state and in the world. He closed by inviting the student body of the college to bow in the presence of the Divine Spirit which has called and inspired men since the world began, to dare greatly and adventure wonderfully in the interest of our common humanity.

Following the address the student body and others adjourned to the front of Bridges Hall where the college flag was raised and a brief address to the student body delivered by Homer Eaton, president of the student body of the college. A brief address emphasizing the mutual relation that should exist between the student body and the faculty was delivered by Dr. Ernest James Jaqua, the new dean of the faculty.

Pomona college, with its new buildings, its increased equipment, its enlarged faculty, and its progressive spirit, enters upon the greatest year of its history.

DRU NICHOLS IS PROMOTED, GOES TO PASADENA

Friends of Dru Nicoles, and that means almost the entire population of Glendale, are rejoicing ocer the promotion that has come to him as an employe of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, which has just made him wire chief at Pasadena where he will have the supervision of 25,000 telephones and two central offices. The transfer will be effective next Monday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Nicoles, who has been in the employ of the company for more than a decade and a resident of Glendale for 11 years, has made a fine record as wire chief. He has witnessed the development of this district which takes in the entire San Fernando valley extending to Palmdale on the edge of the desert. When he began there were but 500 telephones under his supervision. Today there are 7500.

He has the good wishes of all his fellow employes and subordinates who are certain he will put over a big job in the new field as he has done here. Saturday afternoon there will be a little get together meeting of those most closely associated with him at the telephone plant to wish him good luck and present a substantial token of appreciation.

Mr. Nicoles enlisted in the National Guard when the United States entered the war and was discharged with the rank of captain. That record is considered typical of the man.

He is devoted to Glendale and has no present intention of transferring his home to Pasadena, says he has too many ties here.

His place as wire chief is to be filled by Mr. Pichenal, at present wire chief at Ventura. While not acquainted with this district he will have the hearty co-operation of the present employes who are confident he will be able to make good.

BROADWAY P.-T. A. MET WEDNESDAY

The first meeting of the Broadway P.-T. A. for this year took place Wednesday, with the new officers in charge. Mrs. Rettberg has resigned from the presidency to which she was elected, owing to ill health. Mrs. Mary Reese filled the vacancy yesterday. She was in the chair at the executive board meeting in the morning when the following committee chairmen were installed: Philosophy, Mrs. Hall; publicity, Mrs. Foulks; patriotic, Mrs. Van Hise; courtesy, Mrs. Paul Brown; visiting, Mrs. Bryant; education, Mrs. Webster; juvenile court and probation, Mrs. Fuomy; membership, Mrs. Wichert. Mrs. Ryan, principal of the Broadway school, made the address of the day, giving details of the educational association convention at San Francisco during the summer.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

With an unusually large attendance the Parent-Teachers' association held the first meeting of the year at the school auditorium Thursday afternoon. A business meeting presided over by the president, Mrs. C. W. Angier, preceded the program. Alfred Blanford, the principal of the local school, made a splendid talk on the work planned for the coming year. The improvement to be made in the playground and the necessity of wholesome food for school children. Most enjoyable was the program of the afternoon given by Mrs. Jane Whittemore and a group of pupils of the Cavanah Studio of Glendale, including Misses Helen Wenzel, Tholeo Wilson, Ruth Stevens and Margarite Anderson. Mrs. S. B. Young, who served as president of the Parent-Teachers' association for the past three years, was presented with a pin as a token of appreciation from her co-workers. A reception to the instructors of the school is one of the pleasant events planned by the association for Saturday afternoon, October 5.

TENT AND AWNING WORKS IN NEW LOCATION

Growing in nine months from an establishment employing two extra people, the tent and awning works run by W. T. Gilliam has increased in business volume until the former location at 210 East Broadway has been abandoned and the building at 222 South Brand secured. This establishment, occupied by the Glendale Daily Press before the move to the present building, affords the tent and awning works ample space for a showroom and factory.

"We do ninety per cent of the awning work in Glendale now," said Mr. Gilliam, who has changed the name of his business to the Glendale Tent and Awning company. Every part of the completed canvas products are made in the new shop. There is a special room devoted to the iron work. The finest quality materials are used throughout in the construction of the completed article, tents, stools, camp chairs, beach chairs, beach umbrellas and all awnings, including the popular spear awnings.

In the spring Mr. Gilliam will receive a full line of desirable camp equipment, including all of the most modern and popular conveniences. He has some of the latest and most practical style tents on display now, with camp tables and stools. One of the specialties of the company is the popular line of spear awnings, in Egyptian and Spanish designs. These, in rainbow stripes, all on display in the spacious show room, afford the prospective buyer a splendid opportunity to choose the one which will be most effective at his own windows. The favor being accorded the tent and awning works is but another evidence of the popularity of Glendale-made products.

L. A. PAIR ARRESTED FOR VOLSTEAD FRACTURE

L. E. Grimm, 4174 Budlong avenue, and J. D. Spevey of 3123 South Western, both of Los Angeles, were picked up on San Fernando road at 1 o'clock this morning by Officers Hedrick and Abbott, according to police records. Grimm, the records state, is charged with transporting liquor, while Spevey is charged with intoxication. The records state that both men were examined by Dr. Kaemmerling. Grimm was released on $300 cash bail, while Spevey furnished $30 bail. The arraignment of these men was set for today.

JAIL OR AMERICA?

Representative Aswell of Louisiana says that in Europe the worthless and criminal are advised to go to America "where everybody is rich and free." According to the same authority the court of one country gave 200 criminals the choice of going to the United States or to jail. All of them decided without hesitation to emigrate, and each was provided with a passport. Of such are the elements tossed recklessly into the melting pot on this side.

If there is a cheering possibility that the gentleman is in error, hope will cling to that possibility until shaken loose by absolute proofs. That there is a laxness as to admission of aliens, less concerning numbers than quality, is not to be denied. Many alien criminals are admitted. Whether they come with the deliberate connivance of the courts of their native land may be questioned, perhaps, but their arrivals are noted, and their subsequent activities often become a matter of police record.

Nothing could be plainer than that the policy of admitting the riff-raff of Europe is wrong. The undesirable might find better pickings in this country than at home, which constitutes poor excuse for letting them in. Some are undesirable even though not of the criminal class. There are strikes in progress in this country in which only 3 per cent of the strikers are citizens, and not more than 8 per cent able to speak English. And these strikers were drawing wages that enable them to live in actual luxury such as they did not know existed until they came here to array themselves among the discontented.

It might be well for the advocates of the open door to remember that the cheap labor of Europe ceases to be cheap soon after getting past Ellis Island.

PERILS OF AN EDITOR

Not long ago the Chicago Tribune printed an editorial under the caption "Uncle Sam. Lunatic at Large." Perhaps the title was not happily chosen, but the editorial itself was in an ironical vein such that it could not have been thought any degree of human stupidity might construe into seriousness. In explaining how the United States could help Europe the writer suggested the payment by this country of reparations to France, and the putting of tax collectors into Germany to get the money back, first having reorganized German finance. Then, France having refused to get out of the Ruhr, it was to be chased away by an American army manned by the German general staff. This army next could guarantee French security from German aggression in perpetuity. Crowning all this would come peace.

An exchange solemnly called the Tribune to task for having made such a vital change in its policy. Here was a paper that had opposed the League of Nations, advancing a scheme for doing far more in the line of interference than ever had been dreamed of by the proponents of the League. The exchange charged the paper with having made a flop, and with wishing to commit the United States to a gigantic undertaking, the extreme of military and financial adventure.

One of the perils of the editor who seeks to be facetious is that he won't be understood. Perhaps the fact is not generally known, but it is real nevertheless, that a certain intelligence is required for the reading of an editorial as well as for the writing of one.

CREATIVE WORK

An instructor in "novel and short story writing" says that "special education and specialized industry are in league to standardize the human soul."

"What is to become of the vast spiritual wealth of the nation?" she asks. "Education ignores it, industry stifles it, religion fails to find it."

The most comforting and reasonable view to take of this is that the lady is mistaken. She is seeking to interpret the motives that lead to "creative work." There has been much talk concerning creative work, but little of such work belongs to the ordinary individual. No system of training can cause it to belong. There are degrees of intelligence fitting each unit for a place in the world. To be creative is the part of genius alone. The average individual who writes a story is not creative, but perhaps somewhat astute in arranging a series of episodes that have marked history since the beginning; in portrayal of reactions to environment, in depicting the play of natural passions. It is a game in which some are more skilled than others.

That a person lacking in innate inspiration could, by attending a class in story writing, emerge with capacity to write, is not confirmed by observation. On the other hand, if the capacity is a gift it will find opportunity for expression. Kipling, Bret Harte, Poe, O. Henry did not attend such a class.

As to the spiritual wealth of the nation being ignored, that is a statement, nothing more. It is not acceptable to the student of events. There are countless influences tending to the development of the spiritual element of humanity. The hope of an ultimate peace for all the peoples of the world is based largely on the hope first of awakening their spiritual vision. Educators realize this and their efforts are directed by it. In the hard scramble for a living, industry may stifle the spiritual, but this is becoming less and less marked. With the shortening of hours of work, the general maintenance of fair wages, the chance of the worker to own his home, and to have leisure, the stifling becomes unnecessary. Schools are available to all, and these bring contact with the wisdom of the ages, giving the mind the opportunity to expand, checked only by its own limitations. And religion, the vital essense of belief, the firm adherence to a code that rests on the Golden Rule, is a direct appeal to the spiritual side. The human soul is not being standardized, nor could it be. But mediocrity does not stand on the intellectual plane with genius. This is a simple and manifest truth about which there is no utility in making a fuss.

NO SAFETY ZONE

There have been many events lately showing the precarious defense that humanity has against sudden disaster. The visitation that has come upon the fair city of Berkeley but lends emphasis to a patent truth. Nobody looking at that beautiful place of dwellings would have deemed it possible that a fire sweeping in from the outside, might lay a portion of it in ashes, inflicting a loss amounting to millions, and creating scars that years will be required to efface. Yet in an hour from the time that security was the common feeling, and no hint of menace was perceived, the people were fleeing for their lives, looking back upon homes they were to see no more.

Japan, in the first efforts to rise from the ruins wrought by earthquake and conflagration, bravely facing the future, is swept by a huge wave, adding thousands to the already unprecedented list of victims. At the same time catastrophe reigns on the troubled waters of the Pacific. Unsuspected currents carry ships to wreck on hostile shores. Enwrapped in fog the vessels drift, their navigators know not whither, until a tragic crash dashes them to bits.

Accidents involving single casualties are mere incidents of the day. Death lurks in the busy streets, or springs from ambush on the highway. It is in the place of industry. In a thousand forms it awaits a chance at human beings whatever their callings, or however they seem to be protected. There are floods and devastating winds. The flashing lightning may be the messenger of fate to groups or individuals. Gases explode and flame in the deeps of the mine. Walls fall, trains leave the track, trees break or are uprooted in the tempest. Life is constantly aware of the tragedy of death all around, and that there is no zone of aboslute safetly for mortals.

THE GREATEST FEAR

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

It is not the fear of death, nor disease, nor even the fear of calamity, loneliness, poverty or pain.

It is the fear which, if destroyed, will deliver us from all other forms of fear, for it is the fear of life itself, of that steady going forward without which there can be only duration, sensationless and uneventful as the life of a plant.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

A plant at least adventures toward the light; it takes the next step; and the taking of the next step is the thing inhibited by the greatest fear, the fear of going on.

This idea is not original; it is merely one of the great things written by a famous psychologist and accepted by such of us as are able to grasp its significance.

The fear of the next step is what binds the mass of humanity to the wheel-of-things-as-they-are. It is the handicap on the shoulders of progress the wall between man and the joy of his destiny.

The greatness of Columbus consistd not in discovering a new continent, but in the conquest of his own soul and the souls of his followers to a point that enabled them to overcome the terror of the next step.

The explorer is the man able and willing to take the next step, so is the scientist, so indeed is every man or woman who ever advanced the race one iota.

The next step is the step into the unknown, the unexplored place where we may meet we know not what to be handled we know not how; and so great is our terror of it that many organized codes have provided for the punishment of people who insist on confronting their fellows with the unexpected.

The code of the Samurai in Japan provided a special method of handling an "unexpected fellow," and "an unexpected fellow" was merely one who behaved toward the Samurai in an unexpected manner.

The treatment was such as to discourage unexpectedness in any but the hardiest, for the code provided that the Samurai so confronted by the unexpected should at once "cut down the unexpected fellow" with his sword.

Conventions are one and all guards against the unexpected, the work and confusion of meeting it; it is the mentally lazy who are always most tenaciously devoted to conventions, those, in brief, who stand most in horror of the next step.

James Harvey Robinson, author of "The Mind in the Making," says that the masses look with disapproval bordering on horror on the scientists, those 'curious creatures' who are forever hammering on the doors of the unknown.

The comfortable and complaisant masses know that some day those doors will open and that nolens volens their reluctant feet will have to take the next step; and they would rather suffer anything in their known world than to seek comfort and happiness in the unknown.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Jerry Crouch has earned the reputation of having our town's worst temper. He snaps at everyone. His employer hardly dares enter the room of which Jerry is the boss.

"Jerry, doesn't like criticism," he says, mournfully. "And he's a good man, so I avoid fussing with him."

"The old fool," says Jerry.

Last week a stranger came to town and was let through the works by Jerry's boss. The boss introduced Jerry in a time-serving sort of way.

"Our best man," said the boss with a weak grin. "A prop of the institution. I don't know what we would do without Jerry."

Then the stranger began to criticise. He went through Jerry's department like a pinwheel through an Old Cats' Home. The sparks flew everywhere. Jerry almost purred. He followed around, rubbing his hands, his eyes shining.

"And how would you do this or that?" asked Jerry.

The explanation was simple. The stranger knew his business. Jerry would—and will—bite the hand off an ignorant critic such as the boss—who criticises from a complete lack of knowledge and understanding. But, like most of the rest of us, Jerry was anxious to learn.

Think it over, and see if I am not right. There isn't one man in a thousand who does not want to do his work better. But nothing so enrages us as mere talk—the cackling of morons—from someone who doesn't know, and yet has the supreme nerve to try to tell someone who does.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Disaster.
Despair.
Hope.
Resolve.

Achievement.

That is the sequence of emotions usually.

* * *

Misfortune overtakes you.

A misfortune that reaches the proportions of disaster.

And the shock of it overwhelms you.

And there ensues the emotion of despair.

* * *

Gradually the shock is overcome.

You realize that there is no finality except death itself.

And that with strength and courage you may yet overcome disaster.

And there is the whispering voice of Hope.

* * *

Hope has been the leaven of the misery and misfortune of the world.

The spirit of her never dies.

The voice of her is never silent.

She unfolds the picture of the future.

And encourages you to rise and go forth to action.

* * *

Humanity without hope could not long survive.

It would destroy itself out of its own sorrows.

But Hope says: "Nay! All is not lost. Nothing is lost but can be regained! Health, wealth, honor, love, fortune—all may seem lost and yet all may be regained with courage and effort."

* * *

So we listen to the voice of Hope.

And from it a new motion arises in the mind of man.

Resolve.

A clenching of the fists.

A gripping of the tools.

A smashing with the sledge.

A breaking of the stone.

A hewing of the timber.

* * *

For there is no strength like that of Resolve.

Resolution is a builder.

Irresolution is a destroyer.

For Resolution arises to the task.

Irresolution lies down to weep.

* * *

And Resolution arises from Hope.

The hand grips the axe.

The broken timbers are drawn away.

The fallen bricks are removed.

The wreck of a structure is cleared for the building of the new.

* * *

And then at last comes Achievement.

The new structure risen where the old was destroyed.

Bricks laid and timbers hewn and mortar spread.

With Resolve doing the work.

Hope stimulating Resolve.

And Achievement crowning all the effort.

* * *

So it is through life.

There are many misfortunes.

Moments of Despair.

Whispers of Hope.

Declarations of Resolve.

And triumphs of Achievement.

* * *

So in time of Despair shall you hear Hope.

And Hope shall stimulate Resolve.

And Resolve shall accomplish Achievement.

As has been the case through the lives of men and nations.

Songs of the Poets

A Poet Enlists—By Amelia Burr

And all the songs that I might sing—
Madness to risk them so, you say?
How is it such a certain thing
That I can sing them if I stay?

The winds of God are past control,
They answer to no human call,
And if I lose my living soul
That is—for me—the end of all.

Better to shout one last great song,
Dying myself, to dying men,
Than crawl the bitter years along
And never sing again.

EHEU FUGACES!

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DURING the summer of 1923 we spent some weeks in Japan. One thing that we were determined to see was Fujiyama, the sacred mountain of the country, the imposing cone that is the motif of illustration on all artistic things Japanese.

We visited all sorts of places, which were advertised as the best points from which to view it, but it was the rainy season and the old monarch kept himself covered always with thick clouds.

So we went on to China without having had a glimpse of it.

And then, returning from Shanghai to Yokohama, as we neared the latter port, we heard the cry, from everyone on deck, "There's Fuji!"

We rushed out to the rail and sure enough there it reared its majestic head and shoulders above the hills, above the low-lying clouds, above sea and land, as if it were a vast tent, pitched upon the clouds and upholding the sky upon its truncated summit.

Only a few hours we saw it, and it passed—a type of life's high moments, of the fateful brevity of the wondrous.

For no soul can dwell among amazing things and find them always amazing. What makes a miracle is that it happens but once, or rarely. Repeated, it descends to the commonplace.

If nobody had ever seen a sunrise, and once in a generation the great ball should roll up the slopes of the east, with all the daughters of Aurora about him, what an event that would be, and would not the whole world crowd the hills and housetops to see it?

But because the misty miracle takes place every day millions refuse to leave their sleepy beds to look at it.

And what a shattering spectacle would be the night sky full of stars if it were an exhibition but an hour in a lifetime!

But it is of the very nature of glory that it shall pass.

We complain that life has but few high hours, but it is because they are few that they are high.

We are distressed that our days are so commonplace, yet it is only from this dull plain that we can see the pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night.

The precious is fugacious.

All loveliness is fleeting.

Whether it be the flash of an insects's burnished wing in the sunshine, the ripple of the wind upon the lake, the ivory softness of the lily, the electric thrill of first love, the high moment of spiritual exaltation, its unforgettable charm is its virginal newness, its subtle fascination is in its evanescence.

In vain we pray to the messengers of perfection, "Stay with me!" They can tarry but a moment and must fare onward.

It is the little child that died in infancy that is the incomparable one.

So the soul of man must keep traveling. When we have reached one coveted level, we must hasten up to the next, or the drabness will engulf us.

We were not made to dwell among wonders, but to meet them at times.

Fairies, elves and all such creatures that poetize the actual cannot be seen when we look openly at them, they can only be glimpsed out of the tail of the eye. If we dealt with fairies every day they would be no more interesting than dogs and cats.

To live in continuous thrill and enthusiasm would be to wind up as a nervous wreck.

Many a hard year did Father Jacob labor, but once he saw the heavens opened and the angels ascending and descending.

I would not hear sweet music all the time, or handle diamonds every day, would not want a life of unbroken excitement, marvel and amusement.

For I want to rest long among common things and steep me in the homely familiarities; I need long spaces of quiet.

Then when I one day behold the ocean its majesty will not be smothered by its salt, and when I hear Chopin the feast will be flavored with hunger, and when I see Fuji once in a lifetime it will hang forever in the gallery of my memory as a masterpiece of the Greatest of Masters.

Life gets its quality from its rare moments. Our souls reach their finest texture when they cry, to this or that passing perfection:

"Eheu fugaces!"

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

If there was any law considered as more complete in its operation than the well-known law of supply and demand, it was that of gravitation. Einstein has introduced an amendment to the unchangeable, and scientists have accepted it.

Newton's idea is not exploded. That "what goes up must come down" still holds good. The difference seems to be that Einstein knew all that Newton knew, and that he added to this very valuable stock of information.

The new concept, now apparently confirmed, is that light itself has mass, and therefore is subject to the same rule that causes an apple loosed from the tree, to hit the ground rather than fly upwards into the ether. Then a ray of light passing near the sun is drawn by that luminary, and into its course there is introduced a curve or kink. The effect optically is to cause the star to appear where it isn't. Perhaps by determining the degree of curvature the astonomer may be able to know just where the star is, despite its long undetected effort at deception.

* * *

It was difficult, of course, to visualize actual conditions in Japan after its visitation. Had the truth been impressed vividly, the response to the call for help must have been answered many fold. But people divided by an ocean from the scene of destruction, not keenly aware of the Japanese, and if aware, then perhaps prejudiced, simply could not realize the truth.

Prosperous, secure and happy, in the United States, had an earthquake struck their community, the area been swept then by fire, and next by flood, perhaps they might have marveled at the indifference on the part of people at the other side of the world.

Nevertheless, America did fairly well. Certain sections fell down on the job of being charitable, but perhaps they are ashamed of it.

* * *

The prophesy is made that men will fly at the rate of 1000 miles an hour. Perhaps they will. To say that this would be impossible would be foolish in view of the 255-mile speed already of record.

There does not even seem to be occasion for naming a 1000-mile limit.

Federal Judge Bledsoe sent a dope peddler to prison for five years. Just as he was about to depart the prisoner said he would kill his captor upon getting out. The threat should have caused the addition of ten years.

There is no reason to believe in the possibility of reform for a dope peddler. Society may be protected from him only for the time that he is behind the bars.

The terrible loss of Berkeley, that easily might have been even more appalling, ought to be a warning to the careless person who plays with fire, but there is little likelihood of any such benign result. The fire fool is beyond being taught.

Japan is showing exactly the spirit that had in a short time raised it from nothing in particular to a first class power. It will build anew, build better, and achieve a sound prosperity.

Members of the underworld seem pretty well organized, but their association is not permeated by the spirit of sweetness and light. Their fondness for slaying one another is frequently in evidence, and is highly embarrassing, since the courts have to take note of it.

When members of one band of criminals conclude to kill off their rivals, they really are planning a sort of social uplift. So far as they succeed, they promote the moral average. Nevertheless, their conduct has to be rebuked, a process that takes time, and helps to clutter the criminal dockets, already crowded.

According to official count, 78,011 persons paid admission to the Dempsey-Firpo fight. This cost them a total of $1,177,040.80. After federal and state taxes had been satisfied the net receipts were $1,070,368.

"What fools these mortals be!"

In the Los Angeles county jail is a bandit already under life sentence to the penitentiary. He once escaped, and during his period of liberty, committed crimes deserving of another life sentence. There seems to be an intention to try him for the recent offenses.

Naturally a question arises how a man having but a single life could serve two life terms in any manner differing from the way in which he would spend one. And the answer is easy.

In California a life senteice is meaningless. The only disadvantage the double sentence could involve would be in the necessity of getting paroled twice instead of once, but probably this would not be very difficult.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce objects to the forcing down of the price of gasoline. It declares that at the price now in vogue the commodity is sold at a loss.

Nobody desires gasoline to be sold at a loss. The general understanding is that it is not being so sold. The Journal of Commerce must get its information from sources to which the public has not access.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE OTHER CHILDREN

"Helen, wear your sweater, dear."

"Oh, mother! It's too warm for a sweater. I don't need it really."

"It will be cool coming home. Now take your sweater."

So Helen took her sweater growling all the way to school and home again. The boy hates to put on his overcoat and the girl hates an extra wrap and they scold and storm and mother insists because she feels that she must. Suppose they caught cold?

Sometimes I think when I see the children stuffing wraps and sweaters into their lockers and trodding out to the playground without them and playing freely with no bad results that we fuss too much about such things.

Aren't we likely to think that children have the same susceptibilities as we have? And of course they haven't at all.

We feel cold when they are comfortably cool. The breeze that threatens us with a chill or a twinge of rheumatism gives them a jolly toning up and makes them thrill with life and action.

We are afraid that the rain which sends us in sneezing is going to do the same thing to them and we hurry them in or force them to carry umbrellas and don waterproof and air-tight swishing sloppy overcoats.

They love the weather. They like its challenge. They thrive on the struggle with the wind and the rain. Nothing else, no other game they play, seem to put such color in their cheeks and such light in their eyes. No game puts the spring in their bodies as does the battle against the wind and the rain in their faces. And when we bundle them up and instil the fear of sickness because a breeze ripple through their hair or rain damp their feet we are opposing nature and spoiling her effort to produce a healthy child.

There are unfortunately children who cannot play with weather. Some serious illness or physical defect makes that impossible. But there are not as many grownups think there are.

When you remember that really sick children, little ones affected by tuberculosis play about in the snow with no clothing at all and thrive in process, doesn't it make you doubtful about all this bundling?

When a little chap in the northern part of New York can walk four miles to school in weather far below zero wearing lighter clothing than worn by a lad who travels a few blocks to his school by subway, doesn't it make you wonder about all this coddling.

Summer or winter, we fuss too much. Let the healthy child fight his way with the weather. If he forgets his sweater never mind.

NEW SYSTEM OF RIVER TRANSPORT BEING PLANNED

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—A new system expected to mark an era in inland waterway transportation, is planned by a group of prominent St. Louis business men who have incorporated the Standard Unit Navigation company. Under the plans, transportation on the Mississippi and other rivers of the country would be handled in a manner similar to railroad transportation. New types of towboats and barges are to be used, extensive trials of which have proved successful, officials said.

Explaining the method, Carl J. Baer, one of the directors, declared that instead of the huge barges in use on the lower Mississippi and other rivers, the system provides for small barges which would be linked together like freight cars of a train. The towboats would weigh only one-third as much as the present towboats, but would develop the same power.

Propulsion of the boats would be from paddles fixed on an endless chain on each side of the boat. Every paddle, which would exert a direct thrust at the water, would develop more pulling power than the usual paddle wheel and with less resistance, according to Mr. Baer.

"The barges will be small, having a capacity of from one to three car loads," continued Mr. Baer. "Trains of barges would be made up in a fashion similar to freight car trains, with no waiting for loading or unloading. A barge designed for a river port would be dropped at that port and the train would proceed, picking up loaded barges at different points.

"Division of the rivers, like railroad divisions, would be established, the towboats hauling the barges through their divisions and delivering the tow to other boats at the division points.

"The design of the towboats and proposed method Gulf to the Lakes service would immediately become feasible by using the present canal from Chicago to the Illinois river and then to the Mississippi. He added that towboats and barges of the new type had been contracted for, and that the service was expected to begin next summer.

As the dirty oil oozes out wipe it off. When quite clean, apply a little lubricating oil, and the machine will work quite easily.

BULLFIGHTS GIVE WAY TO FOOTBALL IN OLD SPAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(United Press).—The immemorial bullfight, which is considered the "National sport" of Spain, now has a formidable rival in soccer football, according to cable advices received by the department of commerce from its consul at Malaga, Spain.

With the virtual passing of the sword and red blanket exhibitions, American sporting goods manufacturing establishments have an opportunity to create a fair market for their goods, the consul also revealed.

Soccer football, which is played throughout northern Spain, was first introduced to Malaga in 1921, when troops en route to Spanish Morocco, including a crack soccer team, challenged the city to a series of games for the benefit of wounded soldiers.

"With a desire to aid in raising funds for the soldiers and acquire knowledge of the game," the report stated, "a team was organized, the challenge accepted and soccer had come to stay.

"Curiosity drew the spectators to the first games, but gradually this curiosity grew into interest and now these same individuals are anxiously waiting for each Sunday's game. Scheduled games are widely advertised by placards on the streets and in all conspicuous places. When matches are played, special cars are put into service to accommodate the crowds seeking transportation to the playing field, located about two miles from the center of the city. Plans are being formulated for the enlargement of the seating capacity of the field, which now holds 7,000. At every match thousands are turned away because of limited accommodations within the enclosure," the report stated.

The Seville fair, one of the elaborate functions of the year, now opens with a soccer match instead of a bullfight, as was the custom in past years. In recent years small boys could be seen daily in the parks and on vacant lots practicing the different "passes" the bullfighters must perfect, but now they are seen kicking around an old hat to resemble a football while some of those who are fortunate enough to have the price are pushing a regulation soccer ball about.

It is estimated that during the past two years, 1200 footballs and 250 complete uniforms were sold.

Mrs. Smith went into the grocer's to buy eggs. While in the store a customer was telling the grocer of an accident which happened the night before. Mrs. Smith was in a hurry and she wanted good eggs so she said to the grocer: "How do you tell bad eggs?" "Well," replied the grocer, "I never spoke to one, but if I had anything bad to say, I would break it gently."

A HOME REALLY IS A HOME WHEN a man owns the spot where he lives, around which beautiful flowers bloom and he can hear the sweet melody from the golden throat of some winged songster perched on a bough of a neighboring shade tree.

When a mother graces each spotless room with her treasures—children—merrily playing about—where a cheery fireplace will give life and added glow in dreary weather—

When toys, dolls, a little red wagon, pencils, books, slates, and perhaps a lop-eared pup give mute signs of love and child life—

Then contentment turns a deaf ear to all suggestion of unhappiness and home is really a home.

Home is really a home when it is located anywhere in this great Bay District.

No matter what your financial requirement may be, you can easily find just the home that will match it if you read the Want-Ads in this paper regularly every day.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK AHEAD FOR BUSINESS

"Investment dealers throughout the East admit that they have had a very quiet market this summer, probably the dullest since 1907," says Earl W. Huntley of Banks, Huntley and Company, Southern Californai investment bankers. "But the encouraging thing is that nobody evinces uneasiness as to the future. Most of the financial men with whom I talked back there expressed the opinion that we are again about to experience a buyer's market, more especially in bonds. As evidence that conditions are being adjusted for an improved bond market during the fall and winter, they point out that the shelves of bond dealers throughout the country are practically clear, there being a very limited amount of undistributed securities in hand; and that surplus funds are again accumulating, this being evinced by increasing bank deposits and reserves. They do not anticipate that the next few months will bring any material change in interest rates, nor in the present attractive price levels of bonds."

Mr. Huntley, accompanied by Mrs. Huntley, visited New York, Minnesota, Iowa and other sections, and he has just resumed work at his Los Angeles office after six weeks' absence. In New York he broadened his firm's connections for the originating of business and established several new accounts.

One of the financial authorities Mr. Huntley met in the East was John Moody, with whom he has had a long friendship. Mr. Moody, who had lately returned from Europe, ventured to observe that an American could learn more about so-called European conditions by reading our American papers than by visiting Europe. Mr. Huntley gathered that Mr. Moody's own opinion, formulated after first-hand study, was that the Europeans on the whole were so busy producing and rebuilding that they were accepting present conditions as normal and were not alarmed about the future. In this connection, Mr. Moody appeared to have in mind particularly the French; among whom, industriousness and thrift were the outstanding characteristics.

In Minnesota, says Mr. Huntley, agricultural conditions show a decided improvement over last year's, especially in those sections that have diversified crops. The Minnesota farmer realizes that his salvation depends upon crop diversification, plus improvements in farming methods. The corn crop in the southern part of Minnesota and Iowa, according to Mr. Huntley, is looking especially good.

Mr. Huntley reports that the banks throughout Minnesota and Iowa have their house well in order. Many of them have no rediscounts, this being in direct contrast to the over-extended condition prevailing there a year or two ago.

"The prosperity of California," Mr. Huntley declares, "has been broadcasted throughout the nation. Most of the people I talked to seemed to know that this state has been the one white spot of the nation during the last few years. Transportation authorities told me they were looking for a greater influx into California during the next six months than ever before."

If new tinware be rubbed over with fresh lard and thoroughly heated in the oven before it is used, it will never rust afterward, no matter how much it is put into water. For stained tinware borax produces the best results. If a teapot or coffeepot is discolored on the inside, boil it in a strong solution of borax for a short time and all its brightness will return.

FASHION CENTER IS CELEBRATING 1ST ANNIVERSARY

The Fashion Center, Glendale's most attractive, exclusive woman's store, celebrates its own first birthday anniversary on Saturday by offering some of the most enticing bargains that Glendale women have ever been privileged to snatch up. The department managers have conspired to make this a noticeable event in shopping circles. Every item in stock will be on for one day at a reduction in price that should make every woman gasp with surprise, and all the stock disappear in double quick time, with the satisfied buyers. One of the most attractive lines to go in the sale is that from the department conducted by Emma P. Heitz, which includes lingerie, hosiery, and the popular and captivatingly simple apron frocks.

These dresses, in combinations of crisp, neat gingham, or crepe and voile, hand-embroidered in flower sprays and conventional motifs, have been one of the season's favorite diversions in tub frocks. The popular lines of hosiery in the newest shades and some excellent bargains in silk lingerie and sheer cotton weaves are to be included in the substantial price cuts. The ready-to-wear section, in charge of McKinnon and Dines, will no doubt be besieged by a horde of women who will want to get a first choice of all the beautiful and individual new fall creations. There are not only warm, soft wooly coats with their flattering big fur collars, but over 500 of the cream of the fall styles in dresses, from leading modistes and designers. There are all the woodsy browns and tans, with their harmonizing cream lace frills, and the darker blues and blacks. The sport wear at "The Fashion Center" has that dash and tailored effect that makes it stand out among all the various diversions of sport apparel seen on the streets today. Among the newest sweaters are the gay colored swagger coats of shaggy soft camel's hair.

"Every garment will be cut in price until there is reason to believe," says Mr. McKinnon, "that we will do a week's business in one day. We aim to offer the ladies of Glendale, such a super-sale that they cannot resist coming in and helping us celebrate our birthday and our satisfaction with the appreciation we have received from Glendale buyers. We offer them their choice of anything in the house at a phenomenal price."

Miss Emma P. Heitz, speaking of the success of the past year says, "We want every woman in Glendale to share in our success and let us give them the gifts on our birthday, in reward for the splendid returns they have accorded our efforts to serve and please them."

Elsewhere in the Press will be found a big ad giving the price details and showing some of the opportunities for women to get the fall outfit that they have been planning on at prices well within their reach.

WINTER RATES ON S. P. LINES

Reduced rates will be placed in effect for winter excursion season of 1923-24 on Southern Pacific lines effective October 1, according to announcement made today by J. S. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager for the railroad.

On October 1 winter excursion tickets will be on sale from all points along Southern Pacific lines in California and Reno, Nevada, and Yuma, Arizona, to Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Diego, Yosemite Valley, Huntington Lake, Southern California beaches and winter resorts of California.

Included in the reduction will be two classes of tickets: One, a season ticket sold daily with a limit of three months, permitting stopovers. The reduction on these tickets will be twenty per cent. The other ticket a short limit ticket with a sixteen day limit which will be on sale Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, at a fare of one and one third for the round trip.

Between Los Angeles to Portland, Ore., Tacoma, Vancouver and Victoria, there will be special reduced rates with a four-month limit and another ticket carrying a twenty-day limit on sale Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays.

From all points in the Imperial Valley there will also be a special reduction by way of the San Diego & Arizona Railway.

In making this announcement Mr. McGinnis said, "This is in preparation for an unprecedented movement of tourist travel into Southern California that the Southern Pacific has placed in effect these fares. We hope, this year, to move a great many winter tourists and if necessary, operate additional trains to take care of the movement. The many attractions in Southern California and the Pacific Coast will draw a great crowd to this section to enjoy the mild winter climate.

HEATH CHURCH RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Heath Church, 441 West Broadway, was injured when a bicycle he was riding was run down by a machine driven by Mrs. J. Mae Pace, 446 Patterson, according to police records. The lad was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium, where his injuries were attended to. The police records state that marks on Mrs. Pace cut the corner of Columbus and Broadway by about 15 feet.

PERFECT BACK BABY CONTEST CALLS OUT 2000

Since the opening announcement of the Perfect Back Baby contest was made some time ago, babies have been flooding the offices of every chiropractor who is interested in the contest. At least 20000 babies will be entered when the contest closes and the final awards are made. The awards, however, will not be made until later in the fall so there is still plenty of time to have the baby entered.

Parents who have youngsters six pears of age or under can have them examined and entered by any reliable chiroprator who has contest cards. There is no obligation to having the baby entered as the chiropractors of California are desirous of learning just how many babies in Southern California have perfect backs. The foremost thoughts in their minds is the sincere desire to help build up strong, healthy minds and bodies in California's future generation.

Mr. L. A. Maben, who is handling this contest advises having the baby examined and entered at once as this will enable those in charge of the contest to take care of the chiropractors' findings.

BUREAU OF MINES REDUCES TOLL OF DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Although the recent mine disaster at Kemmerer, Wyoming, took a heavy total of lives, there has been a great reduction in such accidents since the organization of the Bureau of Mines. The Kemmerer disaster was only the second of any magnitude this year, while in former years, before the adoption of safety methods devised by bureau experts, life-taking explosions were not uncommon. In the month of December, 1907, 600 men were killed in two disasters alone.

While the Bureau was not organized until 1910, it now trains annually 12,000 coal miners in safe methods in mining, rescue and first aid work; operates 10 mine rescue stations and 10 safety stations; and includes in its mobile rescue units a number of fully equipped railroad rescue cars and a fleet of similar automobile trucks.

Most mine disasters result from explosions, caused by the high explosives used in the mining process. Although American coal mines used last year more than 220,450,000 pounds of assorted explosives, however, the number of men killed per 1,000 dropped from 6.24 in 1907 to 4.19 in 1921.

The most important of the discoveries of the bureau's engineers was that finely divided coal dust is highly explosive without the presence of an explosive gas, and that a spark, open light, or flame from a "shot" in a vein can set it off. Prevention of such explosions can be affected through sprinkling dry mines, or by adding to the ever-present coal dust a sufficient quantity of a non-explosive stone dust. On some mines a stone dust cloud is let loose before every "shot."

Aside from developing gas masks and other important rescue equipment, the Bureau also produced new types of explosives whose flame is not liable to set off either gas or coal dust. These explosives are known as "permissibles" and were first devised by bureau researchers, although the bureau now only tests commercially made explosives and gives instructions as to their best use.

Improvements in mine ventilation worked out by the bureau have contributed also to the decrease in the number of disasters from gas explosions.

It is impossible for a woman to preserve a secret so that it will keep.

Rheumatic Neuritis

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges Is Guaranteed.

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of ALLENRHU, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will glady return your money without comment.

ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

CITY COUNCIL IN URGE FOR RELIEF FUND RAISING

A resolution urging the people of Glendale to contribute to the fund for the relief of stricken Japan was passed by the Glendale city council Thursday night.

The resolution was as follows:

Whereas, there has recently occurred in Japan a disaster unparalleled in the history of mankind, resulting in untold privation, loss of life and the devastation of its principal cities, rendering thousands homeless and causing the spread of disease, imperiling the lives of many more of its inhabitants and residents; and

Whereas, the nature of the calamity and its consequent distress arouses the compassion and sympathy of all humanity; and

Whereas, an effort si being made by the American Red Cross to alleviate the suffering and misery occasioned by this great catastrophe by raising funds for the purchase of food and supplies to be furnished the stricken and impoverished refugees of Japan; and

Whereas, the quota sought to be raised in the city of Glendale for this great work is but $3500; and

Whereas, the raising of such a sum for this cause in this prosperous and enlightened community should be welcomed as a privilege, and

Whereas, the city of Glendale has as yet failed to raise a portion of this sum; therefore,

Be it resolved by the council of the city of Glendale:

That all the residents and citizens of the city of Glendale be urged to contribute their time and funds in whole-hearted co-operation with the aims and efforts of the American Red Cross with the immediate purpose in view of raising the balance of the sum of $3500 for relief work in disaster-stricken Japan.

GLENDALE MEETS VAN NUYS TODAY IN FIRST GAME

Local Eleyen Has Unexpected Scrimmage with Burbank High

This afternoon on the local gridiron the Glendale High School footballers will meet the Van Nuys squad in their first practice game of the season. That the Dynamiters will have a real battle on their hands is the opinion of Coach Hayhurst, who has been working for two weeks to get his men in condition for the coming season.

Yesterday the local boys engaged in a little scrimmage with Burbank High school. This affair was quite unexpected by the Glendale men, who were not informed as to the encounter until they had donned their uniforms.

Although there was no kickoff, nor any formalities of a regular game, and no score was kept, it was possible to get a line on the playing of the Glendale bunch from yesterday's workout. On the defensive they showed up quite well, holding the Burbank eleven time after time with a line that gave not the slightest . In tackling and mussing up passes the boys seemed quite proficient.

On the offensive the Glendale team broke right through the Burbank line time after time for yardage. Several end runs netted considerable territory. Hayhurst changed his men so often that it was impossible to get a line on the individual players. The Glendale mentor wanted to give as many men as possible a chance to get into the fray.

How the local eleven will line up against the Van Nuys it is impossible to say. Probably the line up will not be decided until a half hour or so before the game. At any rate, numerous changes will be made during the encounter, as the coach wants to get all of his men in action and see how they stack up under fire.

One week from today the Fillmore aggregation will come south to meet the Glendale eleven. On the following Saturday the local squad will travel to Oxnard, where they will take on the High School eleven of that city. Several practice games are being lined up for the next few weeks. It is probable that Hollywood and Franklin will be among the schools the Dynamiters will take on before the opening of the Central league. By the time they have taken on a dozen or so fast teams in the course of their training they will be ready to start the league schedule off with a bang.

Coach Hayhurst still maintains that his team does not weigh more than 155 or 158 pounds. On the field they look like a bunch of huskies not under 165 pounds and perhaps heavier.

ENGLISH ARMY POLO TEAM ARRIVES

OFFERS CUP AS GRID TROPHY AT BRANCH

Alumnus Donates Cup to Man Showing Greatest Imporvement in Season

As an incentive toward individual football proficiency, Bob Huff, California alumnus and pigskin enthusiast, has proffered a permanent cup to the man on the Southern Branch eleven who shows the greatest improvement throughout the season on the field. It is not necessary that the man be a star; in fact, the candidate who has no experience whatsoever has as much chance as a veteran.

While the development of players for the cup will be chiefly individual, other factors are, of course, essential. The coaches, who will have the final judgment in the selection of the "scholar of football" will count chiefly upon such qualities as adaptability, earnestness and the proper mental attitude.

As mentioned above, no one is debarred from competition and it is expected that the green material will make a strong bid for recognition in the trophy race. The primary objective is to foster interest in the grid sport, of course, and incidentally, help produce a winning football combination. Prospects for the latter are none too brilliant at present with the limited talent on deck.

The donor of the cup plans to make a tradition of his offering, that is, to put one up each year. With his confidence in Cub prospects and the efficiency of the coaching staff, all else hinges on the ability of the men to come through with the good stuff.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IN THE PACIFIC CONFERENCE?

Cries of Glom and Shouts of Joy Echo From the Colleges

With pessimistic and optimistic reports emanating alternately from practically every college in the Pacific Coast Conference, local fans look forward to some hot stuff when King Football starts snorting in earnest.

The mere fact that the hokum now being broadcasted contradicts itself from day to day means little. Sport scribes are going to boost the home product as surely as rival type writer punchers are going to razz it. But when the time comes for the gridders to bite chunks out of the sawdust, then will the calamity boys flourish.

Some are inclined to denote Idaho as the aggregation to furnish the surprise. Losing only two veterans of last year and with brilliant material coming up from last year's frosh Coach Mathews is not worrying over prospects. The Washington teams, State and University, will also be strong.

However, folks around here are more interested in the big trio—Stanford, California and U. S. C. Stanford has eight 1922 veterans back and a whole flock of eligibles from the frosh and transfers. The line is practically intact with the exception of center and will have lots of beef. The backs will be light and Coach Thornhill looks for a fast combination.

As regards speed, Coach Henderson of the Trojans will probably develop his squad with the same end in view, emphasizing trick plays rather than straight football. At the mere mention of the Cal-U. S.C game "Gloomy Gus" is reported to lick his chops and act anything but gloomy.

Andy Smith at Berkeley has the hardest task of any of the coaches. Almost all the regulars scooted off with diplomas last year and although some of the incoming gridders look to be high pressure men, the initial job of organization is not to be considered an easy one. Those "in the know" claim defeats for the Berkeley eleven at the hands of Idaho and U. S. C. The same dopesters say that the Trojans will defeat Washington and California, but will lose to Stanford. All this discovered by merely observing the schedule. Marvelous!

TROJANS COMING ALONG LIKE A MILLION

New Mentor Is Added to Staff of Gus, the Gloomy

Four days ago there wasn't any U. S. C. football squad. Today there are about ten running around Bovard field. So many men have turned out for the tanbark squad that the Trojan mentor is having his hands full to take care of them. So full, indeed, that he has engaged the services of John Thurman, former Penn star, to help him with his charges. This latest addition to the staff of "Gloomy" was picked last year as an All-American tackle by many critics.

Although Galloway, Kincaid, Baker, Calland, Milton and L. Lindley are lost this year through graduation, the Trojans appear to have one of the strongest teams in the entire Pacific Conference. Henderson and his flock of assistants are going right at the job of filling up the vacant positions in great style. Cot Rice, a 190-pound lad, formerly a resident of Seattle, will in all probability be at center. Earle of last year's freshmen squad, and Hawkins, a letterman, will be slated at the guard positions. Anderson and Cummings probably will be used as tackles, with Pythian and Stark at the ends. Does it not look like a great line? Anderson and Campbell will fill the halfback positions. Chief Newman, the sensational warhorse, will be shifted to fullback. Chet Dollet, captain of the eleven, will be quarterback for the Trojan squad. Some team!

The Trojans have a tough schedule, with two long road trips, one to Seattle and the other to Stanford. Their big game will come on November 10, when they meet the California Bears at Exposition Park. Then they will demonstrate whether they can, as many predict they will, defeat the far-famed University of California eleven.

PORTLAND BEATS VERNON TIGERS ONCE MORE

Angels Land on Bees, Seals Beat Sacs, Suds Nose Out Oaks

Portland took another encounter from Vernon yesterday, making two out of the three games played so far this week. 7 to 2 was the tune to which the Bengals went down to defeat.

Things started off with a bang in the first frame, when, with three hits, Vernon scored one run. It took all the energy the Tigers had to accomplish the feat, and left them utterly exhausted for the rest of the game.

In the second canto the Beavers got under way, scoring three runs with as many hits. In the following inning they banged out one hit and scored two runs. A run in the fourth and another in the eighth completed the scoring for Portland. The other Vernon tally came in the fifth as a result of two hits.

Jolley started the game for Vernon, but did not last long. He was relieved in the fourth by Reppy, who succeeded in holding the Ducks fairly well. Lefty Leverenz was on the mound for Portland, and showed up in great style. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Portland	0	3	2	1	0	0	0	1	0	— 7
Base hits	1	3	1	3	0	0	1	2	0	—11
Vernon	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	— 2
Base hits	3	2	2	0	2	2	0	0	1	—12

[By Associated Press]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 21.—Tom Hughes, invincible in the pinches, came within an inch of getting a shut-out, the Angels winning, 3 to 1. It was not until two were out in the ninth that the Bees scored their run. Roy Leslie hit his sixty-ninth two-bagger and Leslie Sheehan, his sixty-sixth. Strand raised his total of hits to 296. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Los Angeles	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	1	0	— 3
Base hits	0	0	1	0	2	2	0	2	0	— 7
Salt Lake	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	— 1
Base hits	1	0	2	1	1	2	1	2	1	—11

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 21.— San Francisco bunched hits at opportune moments off Thompson and Sacramento, unable to successfully solve the shoots of Bob Geary, was administered a third successive defeat for the crucial series, 5 to 2. It ws ladies' day and a large crowd was in attendance with a cordon of police stationed at different points in the stands and upon the field. Umpire Byron, who was the objective factor in yesterday's mob disturbanee, was presiding at the bases today, but had an easy afternoon with no particularly close decisions to render, and the crowd, though noisy, was orderly. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
San Francisco	2	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	— 5
Base hits	3	0	0	1	1	2	3	1	1	—12
Sacramento	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	— 2
Base hits	1	0	1	0	0	2	2	1	1	— 8

OAKLAND, Sept. 21.—Mails lost a pitching duel with Dell here today and Seattle nosed out Oakland, 2 to 1. The Oaks' only run came in the fifth and Dell's two-bagger a few minutes later tied the score for Seattle. The Indians pushed over the winning run in the eighth when Lane singled, Merkle sacrificed, Welch beat out a bunt and Eldred scored Lane with a hit to centerfield. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Seattle	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	— 2
Base hits	0	1	1	0	2	1	1	3	0	— 9
Oakland	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	— 1

CARE OF THE DOG AFTER DISTEMPER

A dog, after having had a severe case of distemper should not be worked to any extent for at least two months after he has recovered. The hot nose and the signs of weak knees is a clear indication of this. Feed him good, wholesome food several times a day, the diet to consist of at least two-thirds meat, the other third stale bread, dog cakes and cooked vegetables. Occasionally feed raw meat and give him large green bones to gnaw upon. If he does not recover his normal weight and strength rapidly, give him a tablespoonful of cod liver oil in his food, or just before it, night and morning. Give him time and good care and the dog will regain his former good condition.—Sportsman's Digest.

FIRES DUE TO CARELESSNESS

There is hardly one forest fire that cannot be traced to positive negligence. All of them, more or less, are preventable. Not all of these fires have a wide spread, but some of them sweep great portions of our country carrying ruin and disaster with them, a raging demon causing small lakes and ponds to boil, and leaving charred corpses where once stood the cabin of the settler and where lived his happy family.

FENCING CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED AT S. B. U. C.

Effort Being Made to Establish New Sport on Southern Campus

A new sport will make its appearance at the Southern Branch if the plans of H. H. Remple, Jr., '27, and Donald S. Mackay, instructor in philosophy, materialize. They want to organize a fencing club.

Similar organizations at Berkeley and Stanford are very popular, they say, because it is an ideal sport. It develops quickness, grace, muscular control, carriage and a host of other qualities. It gives the slight lightweights a chance because strength and the use of force have absolutely no place in the game. Nimble fingers, quick response of the wrist and forearm to any plan of action, and good footwork are the foremost assets.

"Fencing is a great sport. I like boxing, but I get more pleasure out of fencing," declares Remple. "You have to use your head constantly, because it is a game of outwitting the other fellow. It gives finesse to the action of the muscles and loosens 'em up for a fellow that gets muscle-bound. It is one of the oldest sports, but is becoming more popular every day. It's a good 'sidelone' for athletes in other sports because it develops the eye and alertness."

Mackay was captain of the fencing team at Williams ollege, Williamstown, Mass., while Remple has taken a course in fencing at the L. A. A. C. The French school of fencing will be followed here.

LESS LAW AND MORE CO-OPERATION

One of the greatest difficulties to overcome at present is the lack of uniformity, common sense, or fairness in many of our game, fish and trespass laws. This causes friction and hard feeling between wardens, shooters and farmers. When we have fewer, and more reasonable regulations there is every reason to believe that they will be more generally and more cheerfully observed. — Sportsman's Digest.

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

Dear Mr. Barnes: May I ask a little advice as to how I may improve my driving? Although I am fairly husky I am rarely able to get more than 175 yards, and quite frequently I top the ball badly. What do you suppose is the trouble, and what tips would you suggest for me to work on? I will surely appreciate very much any help you may give me.

C. B. A.

Answer: I suspect that for one thing you are tightening up entirely too much. It is a common fault with a muscular player who thinks he ought to hit the ball much further than he does. This means stiffness in the stroke with a lack of flexibility, especially in the wrists and forearms. The topping is probably traceable to the same trouble, your extra effort to hit the ball causing you to lift your head and shoulders.

As a starter, after you have taken your stance and before you start the club back, make a practice of relaxing fully. Especially see to it that your wrists are flexible, but not flabby. To insure this don't grip the club too tightly, just enough to insure that you keep control of it. This applies especially to the grip with the right hand.

Then when you are ready to start the club down, remember that the stroke is a swing, and don't start by mentally beginning to hit the ball right away. Swing the hands and arms down to about the level with the waist before you begin any hitting effort. At that point you can begin to hit through employing the hands and forearms to help speed up the club.

Don't try to hit too hard until you have begun to get the hang of the thing. You will have to practice at it first for some time. Then when you have gotten on to the swing, you can afford to begin putting on a little more steam.

(Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf faults. Write him care of the sport editor, inclosing stamped envelope, if you want a personal reply.)

SPORT-O-GRAMS

(By Francis Wilkerson Read)

THAT WORLD'S SERIES

The New York Yankees have cinched the pennant. By defeating St. Louis 4 to 3 yesterday they copped their third successive American league championship. They can lose all of their games while Cleveland wins all their remaining contests, and yet finish in first. Now New York is sure of at least one contender in the World's series.

The Giants will have to win eight out of their eleven remaining games in order to fix things so that Cincinnati could not win the pennant by taking all of the remaining eleven contests. It seems that there is no chance that the Reds will pull off such a stunt, for eleven wins, or even ten out of eleven, looks like an impossibility for them. The Giants virtually have cinched the National league, although not technically so.

New York is not so wildly elated over the prospects of another world's series. Neither is the rest of the baseball world. Three title series between the same teams in the same city is too much of a good thing. Three years is just a little too long for interest to last. As long as there is some competition between the various cities or sections there will be interest in the World's series, but when the same two teams in one city make a habit of cornering the championships of their respective leagues, the baseball public loses the vital concern it once held in the big series.

Of course, it cannot be helped. It is all in the game. It is no one's fault that the two New York teams proved the best in the land, except perhaps, that of the other clubs. But even at that the world's series seems to have degenerated of late into a New York City series. How long will it remain as such?

ANOTHER SOU. CAL. CONFERENCE

It seems quite possible that another football conference may be formed in the southland. Six colleges and universities already hold membership in the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference. These are Occidental, California, Whittier, Pomona and Redlands. Several institutions not members are already applying for admission, notably Loyola and San Diego Junior college.

That there could be formed a second conference to take care of these and other schools is quite possible. Six teams are sufficient for one circuit, and the present system seems to be quite satisfactory in the local conference. The addition of more teams to the loop would cause confusion and difficulty in the schedules and general order of things.

There are several other colleges in this part of the state that have football teams, but are not members of any conference or league. Among them are La Verne College, Fullerton Junior college. These two schools, with Loyola and San Diego Junior college could form the nucleus of a second southland conference. It will have to come eventually, as the present compact between the six institutions cannot be made to include all who might wish to enter. If Loyola is admitted to the conference next year it will delay the forming of a second circuit. It is not desirable would delay a step that must be taken sooner or later.

THE COAST LEAGUE RACE

There is no Coast League pennant race this year. All that there is, is a walkaway with San Francisco doing the walking. Or might it not be called running? The Seals are so far in the lead that it seems impossible for Sacramento to overtake them. Portland and Seattle will probably finish the first division, with the other teams running as they stand now. The Angels got off to rather a poor start. They ran along for a time like so many flat tires, and then suddenly took a gigantic spurt, nearly landing them for a few days in the first division. But they could not keep up the pace, and are now trailing along in fifth position. Vernon started rather well, but the gait was too stiff for the crippled Tigers, and now they occupy the cellar position.

Aside from these few thrills, the race this season has lacked the interest of past years. San Francisco has held the lead from the start, and there has never been any question as to who would win the pennant.

1 ANNOUNCEMENTS

NOTICE TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC

Contrary to propaganda being spread by some of my competitors,

I HAVE NOT GONE OUT OF BUSINESS

Charles B. Guthrie & Company are still located at 110 W. Broadway (phone Glen. 1640) and doing a good business, and all our friends, and enemies, if we have any, are welcome to call and see how busy the boys are. We have recently put on four new salesmen who are ready, willing and able to take care of your business.

I did offer to sell the business, and advertised it at one time, but everybody who wanted to buy had much conversation and very little money, so there was nothing doing.

AT THE THEATERS

NEW TOM MIX PLAY IS REAL, CLEAN, VIRILE

"'Catch My Smoke,' Tom Mix's most daring picture." This was the consensus of opinion of the large audience which filed out of the Glendale theatre when this photoplay featuring the inimitable Tom Mix was presented last night.

For real virile, clean photodrama we prefer those in which To mMix appears.

One of the many punches of "Catch My Smoke" is the one where a chase takes place between a racing railroad train and Mix riding his famous horse Tony, which ends with the horse and its famous rider leaping from car to car. The excellent acting, the comedy touches and the flawless photography materially assist towards making this photoplay one of the finest that has ever been shown in Glendale. Those who are familiar with the ability of Tom Mix know that they certainly will be provided with enough thrills to last them for an entire evening. Apart from Mix's acting, we cannot overlook the excellent performance rendered by "Tony."

"Catch My Smoke" is the Glendale Theater's feature again tonight.

Little Tommy came across his father seated in his favorite armchair smoking his pipe and reading the evening newspaper. He stood for some time looking at his seated parent until at last he put the paper down and said:

"Well, Tommy, what makes you so quiet and thoughtful?"

"Just wondering," answered Tommy.

"Wondering what?"

"If you're fond of cats or not, father."

"Cats? I hate cats."

"You don't even like our cat, do you?"

"Our cat? No; I am not particularly fond of our cat."

"I bet our cat hates you more than you hate her."

"Why?"

"Because you are sitting on her."

"DULCY" MUDDLES THINGS TODAY AT T. D. & L. THEATER

"Dumb-bell" has gone into the discard in Hollywood. A new word reigns supreme. It's "dulcy" now when somebody pulls a "boner," or in politer parlance, a faux pas. It's "dulcy" when somebody "spills the beans" by talking out of turn. It's "dulcy" when some "green pea" asks you in the presence of your wife if you're going to sit in at the poker game that night, after you've told your better half you're going to lodge meeting.

"Dulcy" was derived from Constance Talmadge's new film production of that name. In this screen adaptation of one of New York's biggest comedy successes, Constance Talmadge finds herself in a new type of role.

It is that of a well-meaning, meddlesome wife, Dulcinea Smith, who is always entangling her husband in embarrassments by her lack of tact. The wags of the studio saw the aptness of the name and adopted it, with the result that it has become one of the standard studio "wisecracks."

"Dulcy" will be shown at the T. D. & L. theater today.

Others in the cast of "Dulcy" are Jack Mulhall, Frederick Esmelton, Claude Gillingwater, May Wilson, Johnny Harron, Anne Cornwall, Andre de Beranger, Gilbert Douglas and Milla Davenport.

Wandering down to the New York aquarium a couple of east side girls proceeded to inspect the various denizens of the deep. The dogfish did not intrigue them much. Neither did the sea bass. But ere long they came to something that did.

"Gee whiz, Mayme, what do you call that thing."

"That's what they call an octopus."

"So that's an octopus?"

"Didn't I say an octopus? And when a thing like that hugs you, you're gone."

"All gone, I should say. Think of being hugged by a guy with eight arms."

FOUR BRILLIANT STARS IN FILM AT THE GATEWAY

Hope Hampton, Nita Naldi, Lew Cody, and Conrad Nagel are featured in the cast of "Lawful Larceny" at the Gateway theater again today.

Miss Hampton is a daughter of the Lon Star state with a brilliant screen record who is immensely popular with motion picture fans. Nita Naldi, the screen vamp extraordinary, is a beautiful and talented leading player. Lew Cody has of late been playing "old clothes" parts, but "Lawful Larceny" brings him to the screen in a real dressed-up role. Conrad Nagel is a supporting player of stellar merit and wide popularity who recently appeared with Pola Negri in "Bella Donna" and in the William deMille production of "Grumpy." A better aggregation of players has seldom been offered in any screen production.

The story deals with the trials and tribulations of a young married couple, the husband, comfortably wealthy with a seeming disregard for money; the wife, thrifty, foreseeing and courageous. Many complications arise but they are happily adjusted. Unusually thrilling incidents render the action exceptionally interesting to all screen devotees who like strong stories which are dramatic in their unfoldment and which exert a distinct heart appeal.

We feel sorry for the man who thinks that everybody else is dishonest.

Fall Fashions

Fall Fashions Call For Grace In Every Line

The line of the hat added to the line of the gown and the two drawn together by the line of A Crown veil—all of these make up the head fashion silhouette for the season of 1923-1924. The hat without the veil would be as nothing for the drapery of that thin, filmy material must tie the one to the other and make the two appear as one, chaste and uninterrupted line being built and conceived as one and carried out as though they were in utter and perfect harmony. Browns and tans are the colors of the season. And so, if you make your costume brown, your hat tan and your veil some shade that lies between you will manage to create a color scheme as well as a silhouette that will make you happy every day that it is worn.

Hats For The New Fall Season Are Changing Shape In Many Ways

Ribbons, Lace and Feathers will Adorn the New Chapeau

A surprise in the way of hats awaits the woman who is looking into the matter with reference to the new fall season. The shapes are changing. They are, indeed, entirely different. We had become, as a matter of fact, so addicted to the cloche that we thought it could never go out, but here we see it slumping away with a vengeance in favor of the styles that Parisian and New York designers have considered in a more favorable light.

Take, just for instance, the tam-o-shanter. That has had a wide popularity during the late summer and bids fair to carry over into the fall and winter. And why? Primarily because it is becoming to the majority of faces and leaves them with a surrounding halo which can be depended upon through any emergency.

The tam is good for sports, it is good for suits, it is good for the accompaniment of street clothes in general. The one shown in the picture is banded by a silver ribbon and this gives it a certain picturesqueness and standing which is good for the soul and expression of the girl who decides to wear it as one of her best assets for the early fall.

Then there comes the turban. That, by no means, has fallen from the limelight of fashion, but it is a new sort of turban with sides that jet out ever so slightly away from the contour of the face and give to the appearance that accompaniment of smart style which only a hat can supply when it comes to the last analysis.

As for the cloche, it has been advanced and shaped into different lines until it has become even more becoming and hard to forego than it was at any time in the past. Now it has a veil surrounding its crown and its brim, or it is encircled with maline, or, as is seen in the picture, it is surrounded with a halo of tulle over a band of shining silver ribbon which gives to the air of the hat that lightness and grace which are inevitably connected with the hat which is in good taste and designed to accompany the frock meant for street wear, restaurant wear or the dinner party which is so much of a formality that it calls for the presence of a hat of some sort.

Rhinestones in the shape of buckles or pins are ever prevalent on all of the newer head pieces. They are shining and becoming and they add just that touch of brilliancy which is so necessary to bring the hat into the center of the latest congregation of style.

Lace is one of the materials that has been most liked for the hat chosen for early fall, to go along with the fur coat either long or short, or to be worn as a part of the costume when a coat dress forms the major portion. One of these can be seen in the collection of hats from Gage Bros. & Co. shown on this page in which a wide and graceful flange sweeps around the whole area of the brim. The rest of the shaping of the hat is made up of hatter's plush which is one of the season's favored materials, and then there is that inevitable rhinestone pin which forms the only bit of sparkle that is included in the decoration.

Feathers, they say, will be very much liked for trimming during the winter. Now, every woman knows just one thing with regard to millinery if every other component has managed to escape her notice, and that is that ostrich feathers either in large masses or small quantities manage to make her a better looking person than she would have been without them. They are so soft and curling and flattering in their lines, that they cannot help but cast a spell around her which will be very much appreciated by all those who happen to view her appearance. She can have them stiff and straight and glycerined, or she can have them of the curled variety when they wind their ways about her neck and shoulders and surround her with a becoming halo. For all trimmings this season droop away the brims of hats and wend their ways to the shoulders or thereabouts.

A tam made of black velvet with a binding of silver ribbon winding tightly around the head and making a picturesque sort of foundation for the draping of the hat.

Over the surface of a cloche shape there is draped the filmiest covering of maline and the whole is black, strung with silver threads to give it lightness and balance.

On either side of a turban the fronts of peacock aigrettes stick out and there is everything done to make the rest of the hat becoming in the way of a hatter's plush foundation and a surrounding area of satin ribbon.

Lace and ribbon are held into the most picturesque sort of a decoration and arranged across the front of a broad brimmed hat to give it all the air and style that is demanded of those that express the new season.

A lace flange sweeps out around the face of the outside of a black hatter's plush hat and in the front there is affixed a rhinestone ornament which helps to give style and to make the hat a becoming quantity.

Afternoon Bridge Frocks And Those For Restaurant Wear

Fur Trimming Used Extensively This Fall

The costume suit, the afternoon dress de luxe combined with its matching coat—these are things to thrill the American woman when it comes to the selection of her winter frocks—those most important costumes of the whole year. The dress with its matching coat is one of the enthusiasms of the age and the woman who does not possess one of these nicely related costumes and who tries to go at all where smart women gather will find herself feeling very much out of the picture. They keep one through the long fall and winter months, feeling superlatively well dressed. They give always an air of completeness in the matter of dressing, of a get-up which is right and perfect in every detail. For most degrees of winter weather, they are amply warm, and when they fall short of this mark, an overspreading top coat can always be added.

The most satisfactory of the costume suits are trimmed with fur, as for example the one that starts the row of these designed by Michael and pictured on this page. It is made of black velvet, than which there is no more generally accepted material for dress wear this season. Then for trimming wide bands of squirrel fur in the natural gray are used. They are as becoming as can be and against the background of shining black they create the best effect in the world. The coat upon which the squirrel is used is of three quarter length and it will be found to be one of the most successful lengths of the whole season. It covers the knees and gives warmth to that portion of the anatomy, while at the same time it carries out all of the smartest lines of the season to the last degree of perfection.

The long wrapping coat is one of the smartest of all afternoon and dress coats. It has all of the air of a whole costume. It is as good looking as ever a dress and coat hoped to be and it has the one great advantage that it can be worn with any and every sort of a frock from the thinnest silk one to the heaviest one of wooler. material. Then there is this about it—it can be worn for evening when dining at a restaurant or when going a short distance to an informal party. It is dressy enough for those occasions and it covers the whole of one's dress without the slighest question.

The coat of this sort in the picture is made of that soft thick material known as marvella cloth, with a deep velvety surface. It is trimmed with monkey fur fringe which is always graceful and the lines of its collar and sleeves carry out perfectly the feeling of grace and charm which is characteristic of the coat as it stands a finished creation.

Dressiness in the way of a costume suit is exemplified perfectly by the three piece costume shown as the third figure in the illustration. It is made of a new and extremely beautiful fabric called kit fox fashana and is trimmed with bands of real fox fur. On the skirt the fur trimming is handled in a most interesting manner as it follows fearlessly the line of the draping of the skirt and serves to accentuate that informal hanging in the most interesting way. The fact is that this suit gives the appearance of extreme luxuriousness when, as a matter of fact, less fur has been used than might be imagined at first glance.

A frock of this sort fits one for any type of daytime party, and at the same time it is awfully good looking as a street costume at all hours of the day.

A three-piece dress that achieves one-piece or rather uninterrupted lines is the one made of black Marcova cloth and shown as the last of the figure. It has the popular surplice closing for the bodice of the coat, a long line which happens most miraculously to suit all type and conditions of figures. It will be found to be a taking design through the whole of the long winter season.

Copyright Michael

Black velvet makes this interesting and fashionable costume suit which is trimmed with wide and luxurious looking bands of natural squirrel.

The edges of a gracefully conceived coat are adorned with fringe of real monkey fur and the wrapping coat is carried out on entirely picturesque and dressy lines.

The fur banded edges are made of black fox and the foundation of this interesting new three piece suit is done in kit fox fashana, one of the new materials which drapes with the greatest of ease and the finest effect.

Embroidery adorns a three piece suit of black Marcova and the lines of the hand stitched trimming carry out the interest in a totally harmonious manner with every bright color imaginable used in the making of the embroidery.

The Evening Gown And The Corset Are Inseparable Quantities For Fall

Metal Materials Are Prime Favorites For The Coming Season

The evening gown, this season, is as nothing without the line underneath that is supplied by the corset. Everything is draped—everything a matter of line pure and simple without any alterations. Even when the full skirt becomes a part of the design, the underlying principle remains the same. It is the pencil silhouette, the straightline figure which has all the sway of the day. Nothing else can usurp the center of the stage, for everything remains embodied by the underlying structure.

Now, don't think that corsets can be chosen unadvisedly or without some knowledge of the principles which are involved. They are so important that they must be studied down to the last degree of their own principles. They are so intricately and so perfectly done that they must be harmonized with the figure and then with the costume, bringing the two together in a scheme of perfect unity which could never under the sun have been conceived if it were not for the corset maker's art and his whole and universal knowledge of the demands of the dress of the present era.

The evening dress of today is a loose fitting, informal lined affair. It looks careless enough and loose enough but as a matter of fact it is perfectly studied and impartially designed so that it shall look just right under all formal circumstances, still managing to put over that feeling of utter simplicity and disregard for restricted lines and contours. It must look comfortable and easy. And, with the help of the corset it must be so. But the thought and care which goes into the attainment of this ideal is more than would, at any moment, meet the casual glance.

First of all there comes the corset and the manner of its making. It is made partially or entirely of rubber these days, except in some isolated instances, where the heavier and solider corset materials are desirable. But the point is that the form must be considered and a corset, in the manner or method of the interpretation of fashion, becomes the foundation principle of all successful dress design. It establishes the straight silhouette over which the costume lines are draped. It creates the area of form which, after all, is the making of the fashionable silhouette.

Gowns are draped this season at the right, at the left, at the front and at the back. Any of these points for the concentration of the fullness of a gown is permissible and desirable and all depends upon the individual demands of your own figure and the silhouette which it established as its own.

Materials are a prime and paramount consideration, for unless they be of the very best and of the handsomest quality then the gown, because of its manner of line and draping, becomes as nothing at all It must first have its perfect foundation in the way of a corset and, after that, there must be draped over the form the very most excellent of materials. All this is true because the matter of trimming has sunk to a point of insignificance with regard to the treatment of modern styles There are bindings, there are cabuchons at the waistlines and there are strings of pearls and beads, but other than that there remains only the foundation line established by the corset and its peculiarly confining influences and the quality and color of the material that is used to drape over this established area.

Even the thinnest of figures needs a corset for the reason that the gowns of the moment are so tightly draped in some sections while in others they fall in the fullest of folds. Underneath the garment there must be an easy feeling of a figure that is well knit and beautifully put together and this cannot be obtained without the restriction of some sort of an underlying structure. The corset is soft, it is pliable, it is suited most remarkably to the demands of the individual figure and it manages to keep the one who wears it in the very most salubrious frame of mind because it is neither too stiff nor too soft, retaining always just the right amount of form and pliability.

Then, the evening gown becomes a matter of line and fabric, the one imposed against the other in so artistic a manner that they manage to supplement the other one in the very most artistic degree.

Even the full skirt needs a well corseted foundation to make it interesting looking. The bodice of this gown is slightly fitted and a chou of ribbon flowers finishes it at one side over the hip.

The graceful folds of a beaded georgette gown in gray are embroidered with an all-over design of handsome beaded motifs—those that are sponsored by Paris for the coming season.

Heavy tomato crepe is used for this dinner dress the front of which is embroidered in silken threads over the flat surface supplied by the nicely fitting corset.

A sash is an important feature of the new styles in evening clothes and is combined with a low waisted and embroidered gown that accents the beauty of one's figure at every turn.

The Girl of Today Fashions Her Everyday Clothes Along Sport Lines

Sports Clothes More Popular Than Ever This Season

There is a new young girl in America today. She is not a flapper—she is not a chicken. She is really just a plain sweet lovely thing that is herself—the real American girl. But her clothes are certainly distinctive. They are marvels of simplicity and plainness, being after all so well made and so beautifully carried out in every particular that they form an exquisite background for her expression and the things that she creates.

The modern girl is a working quantity. She functions practically in some respect according to her individual nature and so her clothes have evolved to the point where they are practical too—where they suit the thing she is and the things she does.

In the first place she must have a suit. She insists upon this. Be the season winter or summer she meets times and places every day where nothing but a suit will fill her purpose and answer her needs. She wants that suit to be as smart as possible, as chic and good looking as anything else on the streets at that season of the year. And in order to accomplish this end, she must have the best thing she can find for the money she has to spend. The photos on this page from Wilkin & Adler are illustrative of this idea.

Tweed suits are excellent for the younger lady or the older one this season. They are cut, as you will see by those in the illustration, along square and simple lines. They are tailored severely and when there is any trimming at all it comes in the way of a puffy fur collar or a patch of bright embroidery put on at some place where it gives the most effective appearance.

Then the young person who is considering her winter clothes, needs also a top coat. It, too, is cut along lines that are almost severe, but it is made of such lovely soft material that it wraps around her body like a comfortable warm blanket, absolutely insuring her against cold and chilly blasts. It may have a fur collar and wide warm cuffs, if you please, but for the rest it is left without stitching or trimming, simply showing now and again an interesting silk lining that tones in with the color and the design of the coat itself. One button is all that the smarter ones use for a fastening, the rest of the wrapping quality and appearance of the coat being left to one's hands to manage the lines as they will at the time being.

The jersey or serge dress is always a factor with the girl whose penchant is for clothes of this general character and type. A plain woolen dress has become an absolute necessity to her and without it she does not know where to turn. Her suit may not always be pressed and in condition to slip on at a moment's notice, in which case she wears the Jersey frock along with the top coat and in this way she not only achieves the desired change, but she manages to have another practical costume that is quite as wearable for her purposes and quite as good looking.

They are still doing the dress with its round linen collars and cuffs made of white or some light fresh color. But a newer Jersey frock is shown in the picture, with a sailor collar and bindings of white silk braid to give it that touch of crispness which every American girl likes to have about her.

Skirts for this type of frock are fuller this season than they have been in the past. They have inserts of pleats on the side to give this extra width or they are provided with some gathers about the lowered waistlines. Except with suits, it is not smart to have the skirts too tight and binding. It will be noticed, too, that skirts are shorter than they were. This is another gain for the practical ones, who know from experience, that a dress that hangs nine inches from the floor will give more constant satisfaction than a longer one.

Blouses worn over the tops of skirts are most smart again this season. The skirts can be either pleated or plain according to the desires and tastes of the individual in question. But the blouses are the interesting consideration. They are plain or fancy and they are made of the brighest, prettiest stuffs that were ever seen in the world, there being plenty of embroidery and braiding to pep them up and make them look wonderful.

"The dry cleaner says that keeping cleansing fluid clean makes such wonderful results possible"

Stains that home treatment won't take out disappear when the children's clothes are sent to us for dry cleaning. The reason is that the cleansing fluid we use is much more effective than the hottest water and the strongest soap. Yet it is absolutely dry and won't injure or shrink the most delicate fabric.

Such cleansing fluid is costly and must be used over and over again. Dry cleaners have for a long time tried to keep it in an efficient condition by removing the impurities when it became too dirty for further use. Sometimes the purification process was too long delayed and clothing was sent back improperly cleaned, and perhaps smelling of rancid naphtha or gasoline.

We have always made a special effort to see that our customers were not disappointed in this way. Now we have installed an entirely new system which makes better dry cleaning a certainty. This system keeps cleansing fluid clean at all times—even while the cleaning process is going on. Thus, clothes are always perfectly cleaned and there is never any unpleasant odor.

Customers tell us that they never believed dry cleaning could make clothes so fresh and clean. Let us show you that it can be done, as we have shown them

Fur Fabrics Make Distinctive Wraps And Coats For Fall And Winter

Fur Fabrics Are Made In a Variety of Attractive Colors

Fur fabrics are a recognized achievement in the development of materials that combine style and beauty with warmth and lightness in weight. Women who wear them are as enthusiastic as the original sponsors of the material; for they have been quick to realize the becomingness of fur fabrics, and to appreciate the fact that their beauty is as much enhanced by the softness and high-lights of fur fabrics as by a wrap of animal fur.

In the case of "Kweenseal", for instance, the first coat at the left of the illustration shows the beauty of the fabric, and the becomingness of the material. The fabric bears an almost unbelievable resemblance to animal fur, without the drawbacks of heaviness and excessive weight. Moreover, fur fabric is especially adaptable to draping, and the richness of a day or evening wrap of "Kweenseal" adds a distinctive style touch to the wardrobe of discriminating women.

The second coat is made of "Brytonia" trimmed with "Kerami", and illustrates the draping qualities of "Brytonia", a pile fabric of beautiful sheen, in diagonal weave, and shows the beauty and style that can be obtained by combining the material with a fur fabric such as "Kerami". The combination of these two fabrics makes the most distinctive of wraps; and whether used for one of the shorter coats which are eminently fashionable today, or for one of the longer, fuller wraps, which are also extremely popular, it represents one of the smartest styles that have been produced in winter wraps.

The gray coat in the center, with chinchilla collar and cuffs, is made of "Kerami", a lustrous fur simulation that has been enthusiastically sponsored by discriminating women. The fabric is made in an irregular crushed pile, is dyed in different tipped effects, and can be obtained in both the colors of natural fur and in fancy shades.

The second coat from the right is of "Lapinex" trimmed with "Kerami." "Lapinex" is a lustrous black silk-seal, with a short pile, and is a popular-priced seal plush. It is soft to the touch, lustrous, uniformly even, and beautiful. The large collar and cuffs of "Kerami" add a contrasting note, and show how a plain silk-seal can be enriched by an effective combination with a novelty fur fabric.

The coat at the extreme right is made of "Kerami Chip", and illustrates the use of fur fabrics in the more elaborate wraps and coats. The fabric is made in a simulation of chipmunk pelts, and shows the division of the pelts, as well as the markings on the back of the little animal.

One of the principal reasons for the vogue of fur fabrics is their adaptability to the decrees of Fashion. The short jacquette is now extremely popular, and is made either entirely of fur fabric, or is trimmed with collar and cuffs of animal fur. Many women of taste who have worn such coats, and whose opinions are valuable because of their actual experience, will agree that no other winter wrap gives as much satisfaction. It can be worn with a blouse and separate skirt, or over a tailored suit. It can accompany a one-piece dress with the greatest degree of success, and it can even, in an emergency, be worn with the evening dress to make an elaborate costume suitable for street wear. The styles of this season are widely diversified, however, and the jacquette shares its popularity with the wrap of ampler proportions. Such a wrap affords an opportunity for more sumptuous folds, more elaborate drapery, and more interesting arrangements in the way of trimming and decoration.

Fur fabrics are made in a variety of colors; and the soft grays, rich browns, and lustrous black permit an individual interpretation of the season's mode. The woman who chooses the color that suits her best, and that best represents her requirements of utility and style, and who then secures it in one of the popular fur fabrics, will be grateful for the inspiration that led her to choose a fur fabric for her winter wrap. Whether her wrap is entirely of silk-seal, a combination of plain and novelty fabrics, or an animal pelt simulation, it can be depended upon for its style, beauty, and quality.

New Coats The Outstanding Feature This Season

Copyright Shelton Looms

This long wrappy coat of "Kweenseal" is suitable for both daytime wear or more formal occasions.

One of the most interesting effects in winter styles is achieved in this coat of "Brytonia" trimmed with "Kerami."

The soft luxurious folds of this coat of "Kerami" take their shape in the newer one-piece lines.

When "Lapinex" and "Kerami" are used one with the other, the one for the coat and the other for the trimming, we have one of the smartest coats of the season.

For a warm and stylish winter coat, the above made of "Kerami Chip" is most appropiate.

Dresses For Morning And Business Wear Express The Acme Of Style

Simplicity the Keynote of Business Womens Attire

The girl of today has a whole new problem to face, in the matter of her dressing. It is outlined simply something like this: What shall she wear during the daytime hours when attending to her professional or business or civic and club activities? For a woman must be old-fashioned, indeed, if she has not any of these duties. They have come to be so universally done that they call for a new sort of costume.

Mind you, there is no suggestion implied that she needs a special type of frock for this sort of thing. The only demand, as far as fashion goes, is that she shall choose wisely and well—that she shall look as pretty while about these activities as she does at any other time in her life and that her dresses shall be, at the same time, wearable and above all durable, for when you are busy and your mind is occupied with other duties, you have not time to stop and think, every other minute, about how you will find something to put on. That something must be ready and waiting and guaranteed for service, while it subtracts nothing from your own established appearance before the world.

Now, the frocks pictured on this page are chosen to display all of these mentioned attributes and they are bound to have a strong appeal for the girl who is looking for something of the general character described. They are as good looking as anything that has been shown this season and at the same time they are made from designs and materials that absolutely insure their satisfaction through weeks and months of continued wear and tear.

The dress of silk in a dark color is useful throughout the winter just as it is during warm days. When the weather is cold, warm underclothes can be added and either a sweater or fur coat for outer covering, and then the silk dress has everything in its favor when it comes to living in our generally overheated houses. Women who have developed the least bit beyond the slim girl stage have everything to say in favor of a dress of this sort as they find it fills their needs far better than does the woolen frock.

A frock of silk with hand stitches decorating the long waisted bodice. It has a skirt of the same material which is gathered to the waist and forms straight though uncompromisingly full lines.

An example of the newer type of draped frock that has taken possession of the season. The dress is one assemblage of harmoniously composed lines, and its sole decoration is a girdle and buckle of colored beads.

Upon the foundation of a serge dress with three tiered skirt there is imposed an interestingly shaped collar of lace and lingerie tucking. Then there are unersleeves done in the same manner.

Embroidery on dark blue serge leads the season when it comes to the practical frock which must, at the same time, be pretty to look upon. This is one of the smartest models of a new season done in the embroidery of the day.

The first one shown in the picture is an altogether satisfactory model with its straight bodice made of hand-stitchings applied to dark blue crepe de chine. The skirt is full and straight and plain with a line that carries out the newer fashions and exemplifies perfectly the feeling of the modern woman.

Then there is the draped silk frock which is shown next in order. It is especially suited to the lines and figure of the larger woman. It has grace, ultra simplicity and a general air of being adequate to all considered purposes, while at the same time it lacks not one point as demanded by the newer styles. At the waistline there is a most colorful girdle applied as the finish of a girdle. Both of these are beaded with beads in all colors of the rainbow and as the dress is that accepted shade of cafe au lait the tones employed in the embroidery of the girdle give it the handsome look that is just enough for the purpose and not in the least degree too much.

After this you will see an example of the three tiered skirt. This promises to be the best model of the season, for every woman has come to believe that she needs a frock made over these general lines. The tiers are cut in a sort of semi-circular fashion and the making of the gown carries out all demands of accepted simplicity.

Nothing is better this season than the embroidered blue serge, especially when the colors of the embroidery are in the brighter red, blue, green and yellow tones which are so very desirable. The combination is becoming to all types of women and the dress possessed of these attributes is something which will always satisfy the average American woman.

Sometimes the wrap materially increases the effect of the gown and in other instances it is used merely as a matter of extra protection.

Party House And School Frocks For The Younger Children

The Child's Wardrobe Requires Much Thought and Care

The kiddies, after all, are among the most important members of society and mothers know that their clothes must be thought out with care. This is especially so, when they are little girls, for at the earliest of ages they begin to think of their own appearances and good looks. If they are not satisfied with their clothes, then their mothers are the first ones to hear about it. The fact is that little girls begin at an extremely early age to take a real live interest in their dresses, and they should, according to all advices from experts in the bringing up of children, be pampered and catered to in this respect.

Now they have really two sorts of clothes that deserve attention on a broad and comprehensive basis. They are their everyday or school clothes and their Sunday or party dresses. One class is as plain as can be and the other verges on to fanciness though, these modern days, not many of the kiddies' frocks can be called fancy in any respect. They keep to plain and simple lines and cuts as do their elders. Everything that distinguishes them comes in the matter of their materials and the colors that go to make them up.

The most exquisite of children's dresses are handmade, of course. They are sewed together with the tiniest and most intricate of stitches, or if they are done by machine then the work on them is so cleverly and so carefully attended to that they step into line with the frailest and handsomest of the dresses of their mothers and their aunts.

Jersey dresses are excellent for school, and so much that is artistic and lovely can be done with this material. It seems especially suited to children, for not only does it take to the popular ornamentation of embroidery in the very most excellent fashion, but it goes into the tub and washes with the greatest facility in the world. The colors of Jersey are fast, and they go into the wash tub and out of it with ease and grace, nothing happening to the line of the garment on account of the extreme flexibility of the material.

Some little girls wear gingham dresses all through the winter months. And then they have frocks made of Indian Head and chambray and pique and duck and all of those washable materials. They have warm coats ready to put over them when they go out into the cold, to say nothing of leggings and tights and all of those inventions which help to keep the youngsters warm. But indoors they dress in things that can be freshened within an hour's time, for nothing else is practical for the younger generation.

Frocks of hand-made embroidery are nice for Sundays and for parties. They, too, can be washed satisfactorily and they always manage to keep that freshness and crispness of appearance without which a little girl expresess nothing in the way of style. The frock can be as simple as anything in the world but still it must have that element of crispness which is so essential to make a little girl look her very best and to bring her feelings up to the maximum of their expression.

For a party wrap there is nothing nicer than the velvet cape made with several ruffles that constitute a collar. A young maiden of the very fewest years needs a party cape just as much as does her mother and one advantage of the more youthful garment is that it can be had for very much less expense than the more grown-up affair.

Peter Pan collars and cuffs are nicest for the little girls. They can be attached to dresses that have been worn for a week or two and they help enormously in making that frock look fresh and up to the minute. They are becoming and they are youthful and they are as pretty as can be, added to which every little girl appreciates the appearance they give to her, and likes the freshness they add to her costume.

Socks are the choice of the little girl. She has nothing to give to longer stockings and when the day comes that her mother thinks it necessary to cover her knees she is just as sad as when it is suggested by her elders that she let her hair grow long. She knows when she is comfortable and she hates to give up the advantages of her youthful position. So, whether it be the party frock, the house dress, or the frock she wears to school white socks or lighter colored ones will always make her happy and give to her that appearance which she knows by instinct is right.

A little frock of lace mesh embroidery and chiffon pleating is covered by the quaintest little cape of velvet that ever was seen in a gathering of the younger generation.

Chambray in blue is trimmed with wide white bandings and then there is added a rounded collar of white with its white necktie in a string that adds an air of smartness to the whole youthful costume.

White organdy embroidery simply made has all the elements of an unpretentious party dress for the youngest maiden. Then there is the puffy hair bow added to give it perfection to the last degree.

A Jersey frock with flounces bound in white is one of the leaders for Fall among the younger generation. The foundation frock can be in any color, but the bindings are invariably in white and they give the necessary air.

Fashions For Men Have A Distinct Winter Expression For 1924

There Are Many Changes Today For The Smartly Dressed Man

Someone is always arising to tell us that men's fashions never change. This is a fallacy, goodness knows, for each new season brings new things for men just as it does for women. They may not be marked by such radical changes, and they may not be demanded as are women's clothes. Men never did compete in this way as their sisters do. But the changes are there just the same and plenty of men—yes, the great majority—like to keep up to them. They don't always like to acknowledge their failing in this direction, but they manage to carry out the demands of fashion while they suppress all talk about it.

For instance, take the overcoats for the new season. They are rather full as to the skirt line. They are made, often with belts, though this is true rather of the more sporty and lighter weight ones. When it comes to a heavy dress overcoat that is apt to be made without a belt but still with the large outside pockets which always are part of the best looking men's overcoats.

Trousers are growing wide and full. No longer do we see those skin tight and cramped looking trouser legs, but we are supplied with men's suits that have every semblance of fullness. They are sporty looking when they are this way and all the best dressed men in the cities have already revised their suits to comply with the new mode of expression.

For business the short coated sack suit is the best that can be had and, this season, more often than not, it is made single breasted. Dark blue serge of a heavy durable quality is quite the most perfect thing that a man can find for his new suit of this type. But then there are all sorts of cheviot mixtures and tweeds and herringbone weaves that are good looking enough to suit the most particular dresser.

Coats are severely plain with very little sign of a line of fitting at the waist. Two pockets at the sides and one breast pocket on the outer side of the coat are all that are required. Then there are the plain reveres and the closely fitting collar to finish the suit according to regular and wholly accepted lines.

The golf suits or those with short trousers are prime favorites among all classes and types of men, for they serve so many purposes for outdoor wear and they have come to be so generally accepted that they can be worn on all occasions when one happens to need them without attracting the least attention or notice.

Many of the lighter toned tweed suits, as well as some of the darker ones come with two sets of trousers—one that is short and one that is long. Men are finding these suits most satisfactory, for they insure the coat a long life, as long as it demands in fact, while at the same time two pairs of pants are worn to the last degree of their efficiency. Short trousers as well as the long ones are worn with coat and waistcoat and the coats for the shorter ones are made, these days, in so plain and uncompromising a fashion that they look equally well with the more formal and longer pairs of trousers.

Men are wearing the semi-soft collars for everyday and all hours of the day. They are no longer confined to sports and outing clothes, but they are worn continually with business suits—with every sort of attire, in fact, all the way up to evening clothes. Both bow ties and four in hands are worn with these collars and they may be as bright in color as you choose or as dull in tone, for they are entirely a matter of real and individual taste.

The hat for the fall is the gray fedora. Men like this better for all-around wear than any other, it being more pliable, more comfortable on the whole and easier to handle. Three good examples of this sort of hat are shown in the illustrations.

An overcoat for everyday is made of heavy chevviot double breasted in line and with large pockets and backward turning cuffs. It is lined to the waistline and tailored in the most correct manner for the season.

This is the sack suit that is chosen for everyday, all-around wear for the fall and Winter season. It is made of English serge in the heaviest and handsomest quality insuring warmth as well as good looks.

The tweed top coat of plaited weave is extremely popular with the younger men. This one has about its making all of the smartest points of the season's style and its belt and pockets are placed at just the right angles.

The knicker suit at its best, with a dark gray tone to it, herringbone material and the easy grace of informality about all of its lines.

Ingenious Effects And Colors Combined In Developing The New Fall Shoes

Strap Fastenings are the Outstanding Features

More than ever slippers are finding their way into Milady's calculations as an important adjunct to her appearance.

It is really not so many years since shoes were considered purely from the viewpoint of utility. Today so great has been the stride in ingenuity and art in footwear that styles follow styles, one stepping upon the other before it is scarce old.

For Fall many ingenious effects are promised. Strap slippers of course will be the medium for new treatment and it is surprising how many variations can be achieved with so simple a medium. There are straps that start from unusual points on the slipper and nestle over the arch. There are straps that seem almost a part of the slipper so gently do they merge into it. There are double straps one placed at the heel and another just below the instep, which treatment accents the curve of the foot in a most coquettish manner.

Gorings will be popular. They made their appearance in the slippers of last Fall to some degree and were so warmly welcomed that this Fall will see many shoes of this type. The goring plays an important part in the fitting of a slipper, giving it a snug, neat appearance which is so important an element in style.

Browns and tans will be possibly the leading colors, but not the ordinary browns and tans but soft variations such as Log Cabin, Mandalay, Otter and Field Mouse. These will come mostly in suedes and kidskins. Black satin and patent leather will probably be next in popularity.

One of the predominant novelties is an apron effect over the instep with a double strap. The goring slippers will be simpler and will come in high and walking heels, preferably with a single strap effect and an instep of various cut out ideas.

I. Miller, upon whose authority the above is based also promises several styles with his accustomed unique touch which have been developed in collaboration with Perugia of Paris. While America is by far the leader in footwear fashions, still many ideas emanate from Paris which, with the methods of American adaptation, sometimes become the most popular of American styles. Even the woman of Paris, when she can afford it, wears footwear made in the United States. But it would be strange indeed if that city of inspiration did not provide some few effects new to us.

The Parisian woman does not demand so frequent a change in style and the best known shoe designers, such as Perugia, Julienne and Helstern exhibit new models as a rule but twice a year.

The French woman does not take as quickly to novelties, although she is perfectly willing to don the extreme and most bizarre costume and it seems to be the French idea that too startling an effect in a slipper is in bad taste. This is rather surprising in that Parisian costumes are rather more elaborate than the American woman of refinement selects, and it is also noticeable that the French slipper is comparatively far more conservative than the American.

Another factor which has brought American footwear of stylish appeal to the forefront in recent years is the short skirt. In Paris, with women of shorter stature, the skirt has been kept to longer lengths, while with us a trim ankle and a neat slipper have become so inescapable an observation that Milady has paid more attention than ever to her slippers and her demand for slippers of unusual and stylish effect has become insistent.

New Points In Interior Decoration For The Modern Home

Ease And Comfort Suggested By Furnishings in The Modern Home

When winter comes—when the cooler breezes only begin to blow about your house and home, then you automatically—if you are any sort of a housekeeper at all—begin to think of new decorations and how to make the old look like something fresh and new.

Not every one is fortunate enough to be able to clear out a whole room and furnish it in a new manner from top to bottom. Not every one would want to go about the business of their home life in this wholesale sort of manner, but there are always little things to be done here and there—a stray piece of furniture to be added, a new set of curtains, a table in a bare section of the room or a thousand and one other sorts of needed touches.

The picture on this page shows a room that is furnished in quiet and perfect good taste. Everything in it lives up to the highest demands of the American home maker and yet not one single piece of furniture, not one drapery or ornament is so rare and unusual that it cannot be purchased in the smallest town at the stores which happen to be there. The secret of the good effect lies in the way the things are composed and put together. The ease and comfort of the general look of the furnishings depend, in the last analysis, upon the way they are suited the one to the other.

A center table always makes a room look homey and inviting. On it the books that are favorite with the family can be laid. Flowers take their place there in the most satisfying way. A brocaded table cover helps to give color and an air of thoughtful consideration to the whole room, without any further thought in that direction.

One large Turkish rug in this room shown in the picture gives an air of luxury which it is quite hard to supply in any other way. But in this instance that niceness of effect has been gained by the use of one rug alone, where many consider it necessary to add a half dozen or more. The richness of the deep colorings in the rug against the highly polished floor makes background which it would be hard to equal, and composes that background which the Colonial furniture carries out the scheme of decoration.

A davenport is almost a necessity in the living room of the modern home and when it is possible to accompany that useful bit of furniture with chairs that are upholstered with the same material, then the effect becomes something which is extremely satisfying. In this case these articles of furniture are covered with a wood blocked cretonne low in tone and classic in design. They harmonize completely with the colors in the rug and the plain tan cream finish of the walls. Then there is an extra long settee against another wall, which is upholstered in a plain dark brown, inconspicuous enough to bring out the brighter colors gather round it and the beauty of the design of the settee itself.

It is an excellent idea to stand a refractory table against a long and decorative window. For, as in this case, a davenport can be placed against it and that gives an extra comfortable spot for resting or reading or visiting as the case may be.

According to the size of the room there can be many or few small tables dotted about and they always help in that air of prosperous informality which the modern homemaker is so anxious to achieve. An easy chair next to one of these smaller sized tables is a good looking arrangement in any room no matter what its character or capacity may be.

The hangings in this room are made of that brocaded mohair material termed damask, which is so thoroughly satisfactory in instances of this sort. They are dull blue green in tone with gold threads woven into their texture and they, too, increase the rich look of the background without in any way making themselves too insistent in the arrangement of things.

A good example of a modern living room where everything is done to achieve the effect of peace and rest and comfort and where, at the same time, everything remains beautiful in an individual sense as well as in combination with the whole.

NORTH BRAND BLVD. AT WILSON AVE.

North Brand Is Coming Into Its Own

When Glendale began to "look up" after the collapse of its natal boom in the late eighties the section we now refer to as the North Brand territory was an unbroken stretch of sage brush, small shrubs and occasional liveoak trees.

In 1904, when the Pacific Electric laid its two lines of steel across the wide desert reaches to the foothills above the wash, Brand boulevard was but a new country road.

Now it is one of the finest boulevards in all the Southland and the buildings lining its 3-mile extent are worth many millions of dollars.

Within the past year or two North Brand, so long overlooked in the march of business, has come into its own. The first four-story building in the city was located on North Brand and one of the leading theaters, while the new million and a quarter movie playhouse is to be nearly two blocks north of Broadway, east side of Brand. The new 5-story Glendalia hotel is to be at California and Brand, the fine new Daily Press building is at 333-35 North Brand, while the corners at Lexington and Doran are adorned with handsome business houses. The opportunities on North Brand are many, for its business men are active and energetic, offering inducements to buyers that are not surpassed anywhere. North Brand cordially greets readers of the Glendale Daily Press and invites their co-operation in the way of general buying and good will.
